

NATION VULNERABLE TO ENEMY ATTACK, PRESIDENT CONCEDES IN BLUNT WARNING

$32,070,901,900 for Arms Are Appropriated by House

U. S. Launches Greatest War Production Job

Materials Said Vital To Meet Crisis This Spring.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A $32,070,901,900 arms and Allied-aid appropriations bill—a historic high for spending—was passed swiftly and unanimously by the house today with the aim of smothering the Axis under the weight of production unmatched in the world.

Final passage came on roll call vote of 371 to 0 after four hours of debate, during which new appeals for national unity stemmed directly for a charge, and angry denial, that the Republican minority was capitalizing on defense expenditure debate.

Total Staggering.
The gigantic omnibus measure, carrying funds to finance a vast flow of munitions and construction of merchant ships at the rate of two a day, would boost the total voted for defense expenditures in 1941, 1942 and 1943 to the staggering sum of $142,000,000,000. The bill now goes to the senate.

The measure bundled up allotments for an Army of 3,600,000 men, including a 1,000,000-man air force by the end of this year, and provided billions to set up a reservoir from which the nation's Allied partners may draw critical-by-needed supplies.

It provided new funds, too, for the Maritime Commission to send 786 vessels down the ways this year and to construct eventually 2,877 ships at a cost of $6,704,464,656.

Crisis Predicted.
Justifying the huge outlay on the basis of information furnished the Appropriations Committee privately by high-ranking War Department and Army officials, Chairman Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, declared that American industry already had "performed the impossible" in production. But he warned:

"The crisis is coming in the spring of 1942. Japan is consolidating its victories. In Europe and in Africa, the enemy is preparing for his great push, the supreme offensive. Unless we produce material by that time sufficient to hold the front, it will be too late."

Snowbound Men Fill Draft Forms By Radio

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Feb. 17.—(P)—Snowbound men at winterkeeper stations in Yellowstone National Park answered their draft questions yesterday by telephone and short-wave radio.

The men will sign their registration forms after the spring thaws.

SUGAR CARDS—Leon Henderson, price administrator, is shown yesterday in his Washington office as he inspected sugar ration cards just off the press at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The sheet he is holding represents a number of uncut cards, which will be severed before being distributed to the nation's sugar patrons.

Cobb Bomber Plant Gets Final Approval

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—Cobb county and the airport near Smyrna have been definitely selected as the site for the bomber plant in which some 40,000 persons will be employed producing a new-type bomber with the Bell Aircraft Corporation, makers of the famed "Airacobra," interceptor plane, as the licensed operators of the plant, it was learned here today from authoritative sources.

Official announcement will be made soon and may be held until the Monday night victory dinner in Atlanta at which time Larry Bell, the dynamic president of the Bell corporation, will be speaker.

These sources said today all points had been cleared and the matter is before the proper officials for their signature and the official announcement.

The committee which investigated the sites near Atlanta recommended the Cobb county site first and the Candler field airport site as an alternate location.

Because the new bomber is to be a four-engine type plane, a new design by Boeing, maker of the internationally famous "Flying Fortress," it was necessary to find a field which had clear approaches.

Plot To Murder Hitler Laid to Netherlander

German Radio Charges Papers on Daladier Bared Plan.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—(P)—The German radio tonight charged that Dutch Foreign Minister Eelco N. Van Kleffens in 1939 "had in his possession plans for murdering the Fuehrer (Hitler) and foreign minister (Von Ribbentrop) and that he attempted to do away with the government of the Reich."

Papers describing the alleged plot were found among the personal effects of former French Premier Eduard Daladier and the former French minister to the Netherlands, Baron D'Arnauld de Vitrolles, the German radio said.

"Wirepullers of the British government" were behind the "plan-murder," the broadcast added. Details of the purported plot were sent to Daladier October 12, 1939, by De Vitrolles, it was stated.

Negroes Seek Same Pay as White Teachers

Suit Brought in U. S. Court Against City System.

A suit invoking the 14th amendment to the federal constitution, and subsidiary statutes, was brought in United States district court here yesterday to force equal pay of Negro and white teachers in Atlanta public schools.

Naming the Board of Education and Superintendent Willis A. Sutton as defendants, the proceeding sought a decree declaring the present pay disparity improper, a permanent injunction against it and any other action the court believed justified.

The suit was brought in the name of William H. Reeves, Negro instructor in the David T. Howard Junior High school, and other teachers, unnamed, by Austin T. Walden, Atlanta Negro attorney, and Thurgood Marshall, lawyer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, with headquarters in New York.

Superintendent Sutton estimated that the basic pay of Negro teachers and principals ranged from 66 per cent to 70 per cent of that of white teachers in the various classifications, but that they earn 25 per cent in addition for double session. He said there were about 350 Negro teachers and principals in the city system, most of whom are members of the Gate City Teachers' Association. This association, according to the suit, sought twice last year to achieve parity, but was rebuffed by the board.

Specific allegations of the suit state:

"By rules, regulations, practice, usage and custom of the state of Georgia, acting by and through the defendants as its agents, the plaintiff add all other members of the class on whose behalf he sues are being denied the equal protection of the laws in that solely by reason of their race and color they are being denied compensation."

Filipino Wins Highest U. S. Military Award

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(P)—The award of the congressional medal of honor—the highest military decoration—to a Filipino mess sergeant in the Philippine scouts was announced today by the War Department.

The decoration was awarded to Jose Calugas for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action on January 16 at Culis, in the north-east section of Bataan peninsula.

A defending battery of artillery had been bombed and shelled by the Japanese until one gun was put out of commission and all of the gun crew killed or wounded.

Calugas, voluntarily and without orders, ran 1,000 yards across a shell-swept area to the gun position, organized a volunteer squad which placed the gun back in commission and reopened fire on the enemy, despite the continuing artillery fire of the Japanese.

Capital Is Arranging For Another Billion War Loan to Soviets

Roosevelt Tells Press New York Could Be Shelled and Detroit Bombed Under Certain Conditions.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A blunt warning came from President Roosevelt today that an enemy attack on New York or even Detroit was perfectly feasible.

The chief executive made this statement at a press conference, which also produced word that the delivery of lend-lease supplies to Russia would be brought up to schedule in the next fortnight.

And, when asked for comment on the strategic value to the United States of a proposed new $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia, he said it should be considered in terms of dead Germans and smashed tanks.

The senate, meanwhile, was hearing assertions that under present conditions both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard were vulnerable to attack.

Chairman Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, of the Senate Naval Committee, asserted the country must give attention to the "almost defenseless" position of the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts. He feared, he said, "the day may come when we will have to bring back our Navy from the four corners of the earth simply to protect our shores."

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, charged, too, that there was "no adequate defense of the Pacific coast," and that "without that we're likely to see in the near future another Pearl Harbor."

The senators said these things in the course of a discussion of a $183,794,819 deficiency appropriation bill containing $100,000,000 for the Office of Civilian Defense. It was passed and sent back to the house for consideration of amendments. Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, told his colleagues that the measure had been stripped of "frills and furbelows" which a week ago caused vigorous criticism of OGD.

None of the money contained in the bill, he said, could be used for the "amusement of little children," or "for instruction in artistic dancing."

Mr. Roosevelt's warning about raids on American cities grew out of a discussion of the situation in Alaska. A reporter inquired whether the Navy and Air Force at present were strong enough to prevent an attack on Alaska.

The President said they certainly were not and added that under

Australians Warned: 'Fight for Your Lives'

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 17.—(P)—Australia's seven millions were told bluntly today by Premier John Curtin that they were on a total war footing for the defense of their very lives.

Opening a 35 million pound ($105,000,000) liberty loan campaign, Curtin announced the federal cabinet had directed the war cabinet to issue regulations for complete mobilization of all resources, both human and material, for the defense of the commonwealth.

"This means that every human being in Australia, whether or not he or she likes it, is in the service of the government," said the prime minister. "It also means that all machinery, money, buildings and plants, when required, may be diverted to war purposes on direction of the government."

"The enemy rests on a total war basis and this country must use everything in resistance to him."

Curtin said he would neither go into post mortems or permit disputes about whether "this or that thing was done rightly or wrongly six years ago."

"Only two things stand between us and the overthrow of everything we have and hope to have," he went on. "These are the hegemony and fighting power of men going to battle and the industry, zeal and devotion of the men left behind."

"When you go forth to war, you go to defend your life because Japan dares not hoist the flag in any territory it occupies until it first destroys the life of all who would resist it.

"We are seven million people, occupying the largest continental island on the earth; we have tamed this country, gone into the vast open spaces and filled it with courageous men and women."

Challenge Hurled.
"From the day that Captain Arthur Phillip landed, this land has been governed by the men and women of our race. We do not intend that this shall be destroyed because the aggressor marches against us."

The challenge has been flung down! Adversity has never cowed you, overwhelming odds have never intimidated you. And today I call on you to invoke all the best qualities of your ancestry and go to work there as long as you can stand."

Curtin's cabinet was discussing the possibility of further reverses in the Dutch East Indies which would bring the front line close to Australia.

Mikell's Condition Reported 'Poor'

The Right Rev. H. J. Mikell, bishop of the Diocese of Atlanta and chancellor of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., was reported in "poor" condition last night at Emory University hospital.

He suffered a heart attack last Thursday at the hospital after being carried there for observation.

Japanese Planes Attack Islands Off Java; Batavia Prepares for Invasion Attempt

40,000,000 Residents Warned 'Enemy at Our Gates.'

BATAVIA, Java, N. E. I., Feb. 17.—(P)—The Japanese sped aircraft today to attack islands in the thin Sunda strait between Sumatra and Java, and the people of this last major Indies bastion were told plainly: "The enemy is at the gates of Java and will soon storm these gates."

The warning came from Charles O. Van der Plas, a member of the Netherlands Indies council, in a broadcast to the island's 40,000,000 people. He said:

"The population now is called on to meet its test. Much depends on our courage and tenacity."

Bomb and machinegun attacks on the small Sunda strait islands killed and wounded some of the inhabitants, but a communiqué said the material damage was slight. Meanwhile, Dutch bombers were striking at air and sea strength of the Japanese about Palembang, the great South Sumatran oil center which the enemy seized yesterday after bitter fighting and widespread demolitions by the defenders.

STEPPING STONE ISLANDS—In the circle are small islands in narrow Sunda strait which were bombed and machinegunned yesterday by Jap planes. These islands might serve as stepping stones for direct assault on Java from the Jap base at fallen Palembang.

Invasion of this final Indies bastion, and they knew also that the attack could come from three directions—Sumatra, Borneo and Celebes, all holding Japanese invasion bases.

But they wanted only to meet the enemy. In the words of one naval spokesman: "Japan's power is enormous and perhaps only a miracle can save the Netherlands East Indies—but miracles do sometimes happen. Even if we in the Netherlands Indies, like the men and women of London, Leningrad and Moscow, are forced back to the relatively low-gravity fuel supplied by the wells of Java and Ceram.

Large enough reserves have been stored in Java to obviate immediate needs, however, the newspaper said.

Refugees who got to Batavia from Palembang said they left the oil refineries a blazing inferno and that when they were miles at sea they still could hear demolition charges exploding—interspersed by the roar of the battle between Allied aircraft and the invading fleet.

AP Writer McDaniel Reported as Missing
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(P)—The New York Times in a dispatch from its correspondent at Batavia, N. E. I., said today that C. Yates McDaniel, Associated Press foreign correspondent, was among those missing who had boarded boats at Singapore last week.

Last message received by the Associated Press from McDaniel was sent from Singapore at 3:45 p. m. local time, or 4:45 a. m. eastern war time, last Thursday. At that time McDaniel was aboard a ship in Singapore harbor awaiting clearance.

MINISTER OF DEFENSE.
LONDON, Feb. 17.—(P)—An official spokesman said today Prime Minister Churchill had declined to appoint a separate minister of defense, a post the prime minister holds at present.

Expenses Are Voted For State Line Probe

Supported by fellow committee members, four state legislators yesterday voted themselves $7 a day and expenses to delve deeper into the Georgia-Tennessee boundary dispute, although Attorney General Ellis Arnall last week ruled that Georgia didn't have a chance of reclaiming a strip of territory which has been recognized as a part of Tennessee for 122 years.

After conferring with the Governor, members of the committee met in the senate chamber, received the attorney general's opinion as "information for consideration," and then designated four members of their group to serve as a subcommittee for further investigation.

Named on the subcommittee were Senator C. W. Kiker, of Blue Ridge, chairman; Senator W. D. Lanier, of Augusta; Representative John Dorsey, of Marietta, and Representative Dupree Hunnicutt, of Athens.

Members of this subcommittee were authorized to go back to their law libraries and devote such time as they thought nec-

One Ad, Tho' Terse Produces Nurse

"More applicants than I could possibly interview—even after I had found the one I wanted," is the emphatic way in which an Atlanta matron described results she obtained from a recent advertisement in The Constitution Want Ad pages, seeking a capable nurse.

She wanted the nurse to look after two children, too, and used a two-line ad to say so. A three-line ad for a nurse to look after three children would probably have worked just as well.

Possible Snow Forecast Today

Atlanta may have a light flurry of snow today, the weatherman predicted.

Colder weather is in prospect throughout the day and light rain or snow can be expected this afternoon, he said. Yesterday's temperature extremes were 44 and 54 degrees.

Lundeen and Fish Duped by Viereck, Prosecutor Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—George Sylvester Viereck, alleged master mind of German propaganda, was said by the government today to have "put words in the mouths" of congressmen and then to have used their free mailing privileges "to propagandize us and divide us."

William Maloney, special assistant attorney general prosecuting Viereck on charges of concealing his full activities from the State Department, told the jury the late Senator Ernest Lundeen, of Minnesota, collaborated with Viereck in writing a book, Lord Lothian in writing a book, "Lord Lothian part of the material" came direct from the German embassy. "It dealt with activities of the late British ambassador."

Maloney also asserted that Viereck wrote a speech entitled "Six Men and War" which Lundeen delivered in the senate and inserted in the Congressional Record and that 125,000 copies were reprinted by the government printing office "at the expense of the American taxpayers."

"This was done," Maloney continued, "by an arrangement between the defendant and Representative Fish, Republican, New York. There were 125,000 copies mailed to Mr. Fish's private mailing list, which he had obtained through an organization he started—the National Committee to Keep America Out of War."

By arrangement with Fish, it was mailed under his frank. The arrangements for mailing were arranged between Fish and Viereck under the capitol dome. And the poor dupe of a clerk named George Hill was the instrument used to mail them out."

Hill recently was convicted of perjury for denying before a grand jury that he knew Viereck. Emil Morosini, defense attorney, told the jury that Viereck, a naturalized citizen, was a loyal American whose only object was to keep America out of war.

Ludwig Tried To Bribe His Way to Freedom

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A Spokane (Wash.) special deputy sheriff testified in federal court today that Kurt Frederick Ludwig offered him $50,000 last October if he would help him escape from the Spokane county jail.

The sheriff, Ray Kilian, identified Ludwig, whom government agents have described as the master mind of an international German spy ring, and said he was the man whom he had helped guard for weeks and who made the offer to him.

Acting on instructions given him by federal authorities who arrested Ludwig near Seattle and under whose jurisdiction he then was being held, Kilian said he began to "play along" with Ludwig.

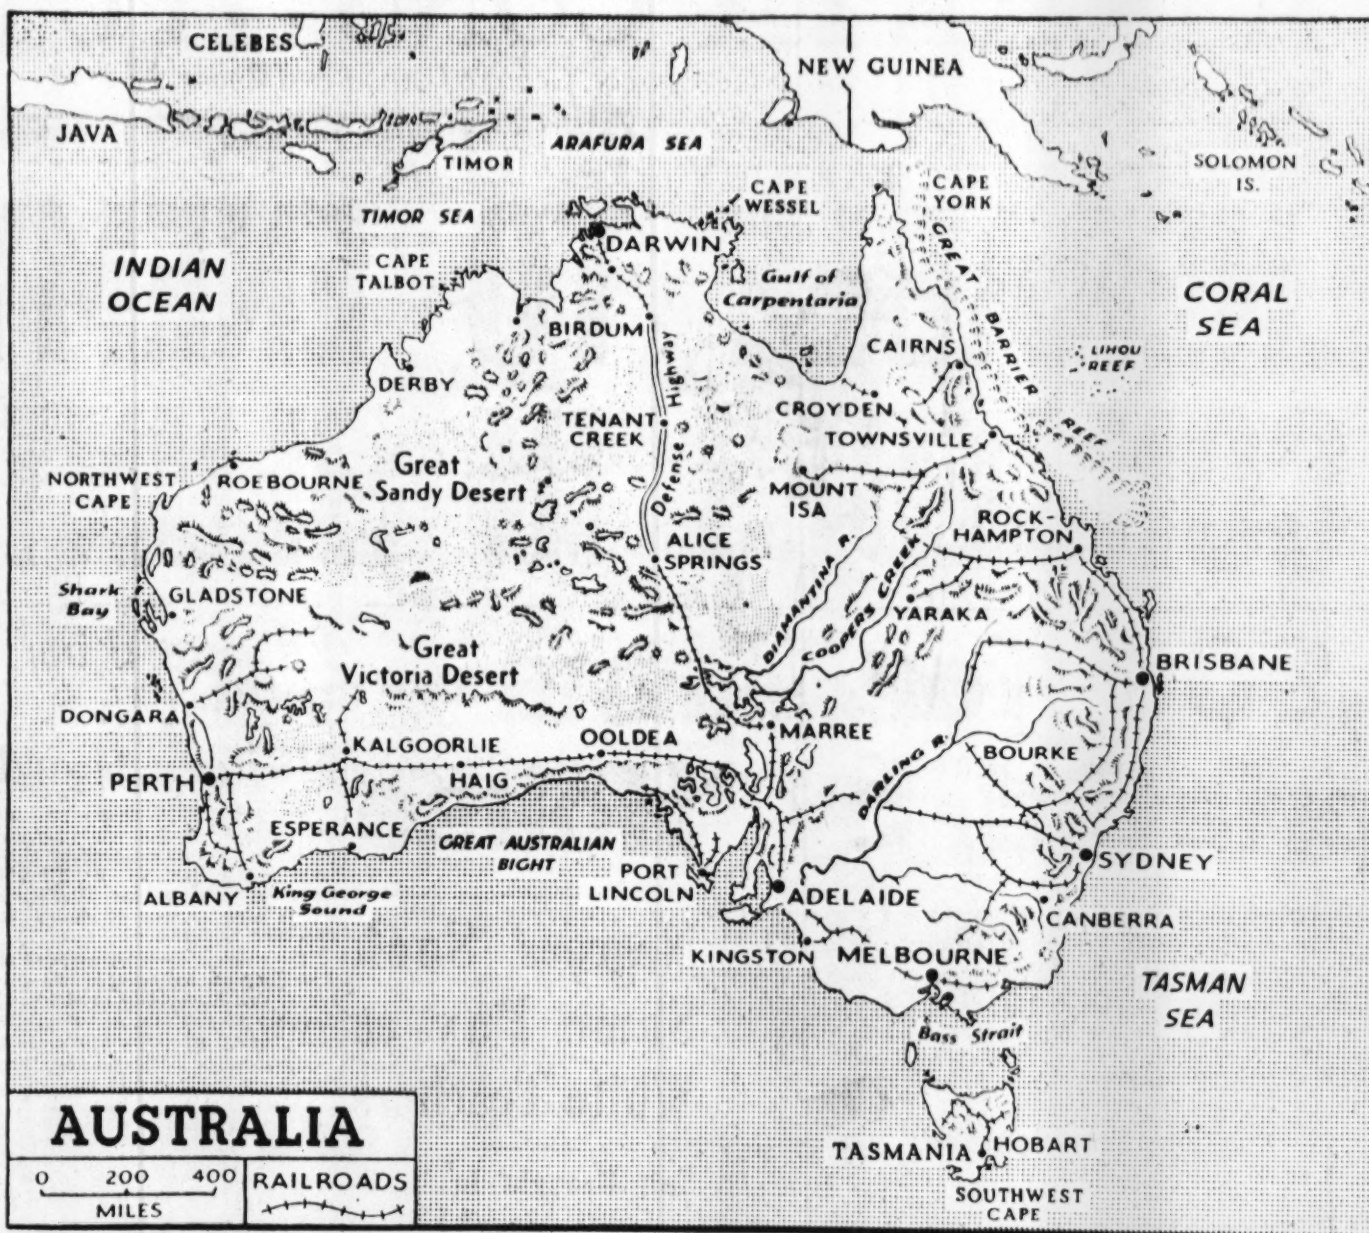

Referring to Ludwig, one of five men and a woman on trial on espionage charges, Kilian continued: "He asked me to send a telephone message to Otto Bensinger at 577 Isham avenue, Manhattan, and to tell a Mr. Borchardt there that 'the family is sick' and to tell him to send $200 to an address in Salt Lake City and to sign it 'Joe' and also for him to take a long vacation out west."

Paul T. Borchardt, a former German army major and one of the defendants, previously was identified by Mrs. Louise Bensinger as a man who occupied a $5-a-week room in her apartment. She said that Ludwig, whom she knew as "Kessler," was a frequent visitor.

Earlier United States Attorney Mathias Correa read into the record a statement which he said was a full confession made to FBI agents by Frederick Edward Schlosser, 19, one of the defendants.

The alleged confession told how the youth reportedly gathered important information relating to the movement of vessels in New York harbor, location and operation of defense plants and Army and Navy strength and turned it over to Ludwig.

With about the same area as the United States, it is settled by only 7,000,000 persons. But none of that extra space is going to be taken over by Tojo's hordes, if the Aussies have their way. "Every human being" on that fifth continent was drafted yesterday for duty in shop or at the front. Japs already have landed on the Solomon Islands and New Guinea, to the northeast. At the northern port of Darwin, linked to southern industrial centers by a new defense highway connecting with railroads, are based many of the ships of the commonwealth navy. From strategically located bases an air corps of at least 60,000 men is ready to strike at any enemy move toward the continent's 12,210 miles of coastline. The 1,000-mile Great Barrier reef along the northeast coast now holds double danger because of recently placed mines.

Repealer Goes Before Senate Group Today

Several Proposals To Suspend Rules Are Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Insistent demands in the senate for repeal of congressional retirement benefits resulted today in an informal agreement among leaders whereby the Civil Service Committee will consider repeal proposals tomorrow and reports its decision not later than the following day.

The decision to begin committee consideration tomorrow instead of next Tuesday as had first been announced by Chairman Bulow, Democrat, South Dakota, was reached after the chamber had spent most of the afternoon in heated debate over the issue and several proposals to suspend the rules for an immediate vote were withdrawn.

Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, a leader of repeal forces, told reporters that he had agreed to a two-day delay and believed that to be "reasonable."

"It is better to take it up in an orderly way," he declared.

Earlier, Majority Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, who forecast that the senate would vote to repeal congressional retirement benefits before the week-end, told his colleagues: "I think the senate wants to vote on this now. I think the country wants this repealed. The country wants assurance that the congress of the United States is not deliberately spending its time in frivolous, unwise, untimely or questionable legislation."

Barkley was one of a group which included Senators Byrd, Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina; Burton, Republican, Ohio; and Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, who said they would attempt to attach a repeal provision to pending legislation. These efforts were dropped, however, in response to assurances of prompt committee action.

A number of senators, includ-

Buck Private Scoops Colonel! Opens Bombardier School Alone

MIDLAND, Texas, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A buck private scooped the colonel, so Midland's new bombardier school went into operation without the elaborate ceremony planned for the dropping of the first bomb.

Colonel I. Davies, commandant, was to have been at the bomber's controls. But no one told Private R. J. Smith, public relations photographer, about the plans.

He procured a couple of bombs, persuaded a training crew to fly him over the range and photographed the missiles as they fell.

Then the storm broke, squarely over Private Smith's head—until Colonel Smith came to the rescue by calling off the ceremony and reminding his subordinate officers that—"In wartime like this the Army doesn't need so much fuss and feathers, anyway. And it can use a little more initiative, even if it is misguided."

ing several who said they would vote for repeal, came to the defense of the retirement measure, contending that opposition to it arose from a misunderstanding of its provisions.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, declared that the people would lose all confidence in congress if it reversed itself and repealed the retirement legislation which he said was "misplaced pensions for congress."

"Under the whip and lash of temporary editorial opinion and mouthings," he told the senate, "congress has been asked to back up and crawl into its hole."

"It would rather be hung as a member of a pack of selfish politicians than as a member of a pack of cowards and fools."

He asserted that an "insidious and vitriolic campaign" against the retirement legislation had been started in Spokane, Wash., by a "group of triflers, most of them wealthy men," who had little to do except put out "this vicious propaganda."

Senators Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, and Doxey, Democrat, Mississippi, defended the law as providing the same type of retirement fund, contributed to by members, which was available to civil service employees of the government, but said they would vote against it because of public opposition to it.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt described as rot reports in Washington that the damage done by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor was greater than that reported by Secretary of the Navy Knox after his personal investigation of the extent of the damage.

The word R-O-T, he said, spelling it out, was applicable to most of the rumors circulated in Washington. The town, he said, had become a rumor factory and he hoped his statement would sink in.

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Feb. 17.—(AP)—Millions of Japanese will celebrate the conquest of Singapore tomorrow as a body of picked troops makes a "formal entry" into the city, still burning and smoking from days of bombing and shelling.

The entry to the city where thousands of British, Australian and Indian troops are being disarmed and interned will be a military display. Japanese troops have attempted to remove some of the signs of the recent hard fighting, but warehouses and other buildings are still smoldering.

All Japanese schools will be closed tomorrow and the population will join in a program of visiting shrines, decorating warriors' graves and parading. Premier Tojo will make a nation-wide radio address at noon.

Axis Sub Sinks German Steamer

LONDON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The admiralty said today that the 5,033-ton German steamer Spreewald was sunk last month by an Axis submarine after first issuing a distress signal identifying herself as the British Royal Mail steamer Britany.

The admiralty said an SOS was received on the night of January 31 "stating that a ship purporting to be the British Royal Mail steamer Britany had been torpedoed 450 miles north of the Azores."

Soon afterward the distress signal was repeated in German as well as English, giving the same position but the ship's name as the Spreewald, the admiralty said.

Atlantic War 'Eased' by Dash Of Nazi Ships

Reassuring Message Is Given Commons by Churchill.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Far from being worsened, the British position in the Atlantic has in fact been "definitely eased" by the dash of important German fleet units through the Dover strait, Winston Churchill told parliament and the Allied world today in the most reassuring message of all the recent black weeks.

Appearing before commons for the first time since the fall of Singapore, the prime minister presented a side to the affair of the Dover strait which was utterly the reverse of that which had been widely accepted as a catastrophic defeat for the royal navy.

He was able to postpone, until such time as the current "god of anger" had left the house, general debate on the subject of British reverses in the Orient. Although there was hostility in the house, he was cheered as he entered and departed, and he gave up nothing of consequence to his critics.

After the session a group of influential midland M. P.'s at a private meeting adopted a resolution of "unabated confidence" in the prime minister. At the same time, however, the group called Churchill's attention to "the grave feeling of unrest and doubt" in the country and urged changes to obtain "effective co-ordination of defense services" and reconstruction of the British cabinet to enable "entire energy and thought to be concentrated on the war effort."

Nazis Badly Damaged.
He disclosed for the first time that the principal breaches of the strait—the 26,000-ton Nazi battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau—had been so heavily hit as to be out of action for some time to come, and almost as he spoke there was evidence in other quarters that those vessels already had been brought under attack in their new shelter in the North sea.

The main point of all, he said, was that the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen and many smaller vessels—had abandoned at Brest, France, a much better position than they had gained.

At Brest, he explained, the German ships had lain on the flank of the British convoy route to the east and in position to leap at any time both into the Atlantic or Mediterranean, thus necessitating a costly 10-month intermittent British bombing campaign to keep them immobilized.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Seven men were killed late yesterday afternoon when a United States Navy patrol bomber crashed in the mountains about nine miles east of Buena Vista, Va. Two crew members escaped without serious injury.

The plane was returning to its base from a routine flight at the time of the accident, the fifth naval district announced today. The plane burned after the crash.

State Allotted 2,139 Retreads For February

Rationing To Begin Tomorrow With Trucks Getting Benefits.

Rationing of retreaded and recapped tires will begin tomorrow and Georgia has been allotted only 2,139 retreads for trucks and none for passenger cars for the remainder of February, T. M. Forbes, state rationing administrator, announced yesterday.

Fulton county's February quota for recaps or retreads is 357 truck tires, while DeKalb's is 36. Forbes said it was extremely doubtful whether passenger cars would be allowed retreads during March.

Under the new tire rationing program there is now an "A" and a "B" list. The "A" list applies to new casings, while the "B" list includes retreads. The "B" or secondary list has broad coverage, Forbes pointed out. It includes taxis, jitneys, technicians and engineers for various kinds of reconstruction jobs, workers going to and from defense jobs, and traveling salesmen selling certain types of commodities.

Forbes explained, however, that if the allotment of new tires is not large enough to take care of the "A" list, part of the retreads or recaps may have to be used for this purpose.

In other words, he pointed out, it will be a question of accommodating applicants most important to community life and the defense program first.

The rationing administration said instructions on the new tire program had been sent out to the county boards, but that no forms are available for taking applications. These, he said, are expected during the next few days.

The ban on retreading and recapping applies both to the sale of tires already processed as well as to the practice of getting your own tires recapped. As yet there are no restrictions on the sale of second-hand tires.

Forbes said he had received no further information from Washington on the rationing of sugar.

Sentence, Fine Are Imposed In Tire Theft

3 1-2 to Seven Years Plus $1,600 Assessed in Pennsylvania.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 17.—(P)—A 3 1-2-to-7-year prison sentence and a $1,600 fine with costs was imposed today on the first Blair county man to plead guilty to stealing automobile tires since rationing of rubber began.

Judge George G. Patterson imposed the sentence on William H. Lauer, 28, of Altoona, after Lauer admitted thefts of five tires, tubes and wheels from two cars. Joseph Woytowicz, 22, of Altoona, accused of being Lauer's accomplice, was sentenced to one to two years in jail.

Kiwanis Marks Birthday With Big Celebration

Past Presidents Review Past History and Achievements.

By DUDLEY GLASS.
Atlanta Kiwanis yesterday celebrated its 24th birthday in a big way, with the biggest dining room in the Ansley hotel jammed, microphones all over the place and a succession of past presidents reviewing the club's history and achievements.

Nobody presided. Announcements over the amplifiers were by Doug Edwards from behind a screen. There were charter members at the long guest table—not all of them. Some have passed on, many have scattered to other cities. But there were quite a few of the men who organized Kiwanis in Atlanta in 1918, with 54 members who hardly know where they were headed.

Quartet Makes Hit.
Hit of the luncheon was the debut of the Belmont Quartet, unit of the recently formed Society For the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing. As they were not otherwise compensated, they should get some publicity, at least. Behind their walrus moustaches and white coats they were John Clotworthy, Paul Crutchfield, Maurice Frye and Frank Norton. And how they did bear down on the harmony in "Dear Old Girl" and "When De Good Lawd Set You Free."

Arranged by Faber Bollinger, a past president, the theme of the anniversary was "Away Back When." To four past presidents was assigned the pleasant duty of reviewing the achievements of Atlanta Kiwanis. The speakers were Henry Heinz, a past international president, who talked about Kiwanis from 1918 to 1924, inclusive; Robert H. Jones, 1925-30; Sinclair Jacobs, 1931-36, and George Giese, 1937-1942. A. L. Zachry, current president, hardly has got started so he had little to say.

"Old Guard" Members.
The "Old Guard," charter members reviewing are Sam Cohen, Carling Dinkler, Gordon Donaldson, Byron Kistner, Simon Selig, Olin Stanton and Francis Wood.

Kiwanis, it was brought out by the speakers, started in a spirit of fun—and found a succession of serious jobs on its hands. Biggest of these, perhaps, was the adoption of the former "Home For the Friendless," an orphanage, and the subsequent establishment of Hillside Cottages, on land purchased by the club—for these youngsters were no longer friendless after Kiwanis took hold. There were contributions to public movements, leadership in civic undertakings, support of numerous causes, local and national.

Especially proud are the Kiwanians that they have twice entertained the international convention of their organization.

ATLANTAN SPEAKS.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Feb. 17. Miss Anza Hillhouse, of Atlanta, addressed the Commerce Club of the Georgia State College for Women Tuesday night. Miss Hillhouse graduated from G. S. C. W. in 1939 and was president of the Commerce Club her senior year.

KIWANIANS PUFF—George Giese, left, president of Atlanta Kiwanis in 1939, and Henry Heinz, president in 1919 and past international president, take a joint puff at the 24 candles on the Kiwanis Club's anniversary cake. The birthday was celebrated yesterday at a luncheon.

Air raid wardens were given their first course of instruction under Fire Chief G. Walton Scott in the municipal auditorium Tuesday night.

United Nations Control of World Is Seen by Embree

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

America's bankers, industrialists and plain, ordinary businessmen who worry about the taxes will emerge from this war with a healthful realization that this country can no longer sit on the sidelines of world affairs, offering nothing and contributing less, according to Dr. Edwin Rogers Embree, noted historian and president of the Julius Rosenwald Foundation. Dr. Embree is in Atlanta for a few days' visit.

MacArthur Name Sought For Miami Hospital

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17.—(AP)—

Mayor C. H. Reeder today telegraphed the Office of Defense Public Works asking a waiver of federal regulations to permit the naming of a $1,050,000 charity hospital after General Douglas MacArthur.

Since the federal government is putting up part of the money, Reeder said it would be necessary to obtain a waiver of a rule that no project be named after a living person.

At the same time, the Miami Daily News in an eight-column Page 1 editorial called on the county commission to name the heavily traveled causeway linking Miami and Miami Beach over Biscayne bay the MacArthur causeway.

County-owned and never named, the causeway is a thoroughfare for thousands of automobiles from all over the United States.

"This world," in the Embree opinion, "will be controlled for a number of years by an expanded organization founded on the very union we have today—the United Nations."

Three Results. "I believe we shall have, at least, three healthy results from this control by the progressive and democratic nations:

"1. A world supreme court.

"2. An international police force.

"3. An international coinage."

"Already we have 26 countries allied under this group of United Nations and already we are practicing the ideas of the common military and the common economy."

"The world supreme court will be the enlightened manner of settling disputes that plunge us into these meaningless wars."

Must Prevent War.

"The businessman, the industrialist and the banker is beginning to realize that something will have to be done to prevent these costly wars every generation or so."

"The League of Nations failed because it had no power behind it to enforce right and justice."

"The United States is recognized today, more than it realizes, as the practical manner in which the original 13 colonies grew into 48 flourishing states under our system of federal government has been a lesson to the world. The United Nations of the World is the only plausible solution for the world's troubles. There is no reason, at all, why all the nations cannot live in harmony, just as the 48 states of our nation live. We have had only one war to disturb us in our 150 years of existence."

One Alternative.

The only alternative to the United Nations plan, said Dr. Embree, would be a world of barbarism and slow decay.

Dr. Embree spoke yesterday at Gammon Theological Seminary on "Living Together in a Rapidly Shrinking World."

From the standpoint of communication, he said, the whole world today is smaller than Georgia was 150 years ago, and all its people are mutually dependent. It is high time, he said, that the various nations begin to understand and appreciate one another.

Dr. Embree's second lecture will

French Deny Aid To Rommel Troops

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Feb. 17.—(AP)—

Officials in both the occupied and unoccupied zones broke their silence today to deny reports that Marshal Erwin Rommel's German troops in Libya had received supplies through French Tunisia.

The denials were made on the eve of a hastily called French empire conference scheduled to start at 3 p. m. tomorrow. General Yves Chatelet, governor general of Algeria, arrived today for the meeting. Admiral Jean Estève, resident general of Tunisia, and General Auguste Nogues, supreme commander of French forces in North Africa, are already here.

An authorized source here said the statement of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles that no American goods were forwarded to Rommel by the French had produced "great satisfaction" in Vichy. Political circles were hoping for a similar statement regarding French materials.

Survey Started On Water Aid For Bell Plant

Estimates, Detailed Plans on Supply Mains Are Asked.

W. Zede Smith, general manager of the Atlanta waterworks, yesterday began a survey of needs to supply water for the new Bell Aircraft Company's plant which, it is reported, will be located in Cobb county.

Mayor McCraw at the request of Mayor L. M. (Rip) Blair, of Marietta, also asked Smith to make his estimates and to prepare detailed plans to provide an ample water supply for Marietta.

Under the program two 15-inch water mains will be laid—one out the new Marietta highway and the other out the old route. This will enable the city to market water to consumers along both thoroughfares and at the same time furnish an ample supply for operations of the plant.

stick, was that of the work-training potentialities of Atlanta and the Atlanta area, according to the Washington source revealing the information today.

The recommending committee was greatly impressed, it is reported, by meeting at luncheon arranged for them by Frank Neely, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, at which luncheon the committee met representatives of the training schools in the state, such as the NYA, the Vocational High school training units, the WPA, Georgia Tech, Fulton county and Atlanta school systems, and other producers of trained workers. There had been some doubt on the part of the committee as to the ability of the Atlanta area to produce the work load needed.

An effort will be made to obtain new training machinery for the schools and, within the next few months, their capacity will be enlarged. The Bell Aircraft Corporation is expected to send its representatives to Atlanta immediately to indicate the type training needed. It is understood to be training for specific jobs.

A high percentage of women, probably as high as 65 per cent, will be employed. It has been found in other airplane plants that women are superior, in many jobs, to men. They work as riveters and as welders, as well as at precision drilling. Arc and spot welding is employed in airplane production. The old-type acetylene welding rapidly is becoming obsolete in this type work.

Cobb county officials, led by Mayor Rip Blair, lent all possible co-operation and this, plus their own plans for producing workers, also contributed greatly to the decision reported unofficially today. Official confirmation was reported due soon, or certainly by next Monday when President Bell speaks in Atlanta.

3 Jap Aliens Seized by FBI Near Air Field

Important Papers Found in Raid; German Also Is Held.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 17.—(AP)—FBI-directed raiding parties swept down on two farms in the vicinity of Mather Air Corps Field today, arrested three Japanese nationals and seized weapons, radio equipment and other contraband.

The raid was the latest in a series of 25 which began yesterday. The others yielded important secret papers and resulted in arrests of Japanese aliens who possessed United States as well as Japanese army uniforms.

Officers could not divulge the nature of the secret papers but emphasized the records were of more value than any seized in previous raids in California.

The first organized search for contraband and potential saboteurs in and around the state capital city brought the arrest of 16 Japanese aliens, booked en route to immigration authorities.

SANTA MARIA, Cal., Feb. 17.

(AP)—Saju Shiba, 53-year-old Japanese, was jailed for the FBI today, Deputy District Attorney Thomas P. Weldon reported, after his 16-year-old son reported possession of a camera and a .32-caliber automatic rifle.

Weldon said the son, Hiroshi Shiba, a high school student, came to the police station badly beaten and told police he had been set upon by his father and two brothers, 18 and 20 years old, when he told them his intention of enlisting in the United States Army Air Corps.

The searches were made near Luke, Williams, Thunderbird and Falcon fields, in the vicinity of Davis-Monthan Field, near Tucson.

Loew's Screen Co-Stars Tracy And Hepburn

'Woman of the Year' Is Ring Lardner Story of Feud and Love.

Katharine Hepburn was required to study pronunciation in seven tongues for her role as an international columnist in "Woman of the Year," in which she co-stars with Spencer Tracy, starting today at Loew's Grand theater.

Language teachers instructed her in Spanish, Russian, French, Italian, Chinese, Greek and Japanese, in order that her scenes with people of those nations would be accurate. She was graduated from Bryn Mawr with a doctor of philosophy degree, but made only a cursory study of languages.

Tracy appears as a sports editor with whom she feuds in type and later learns to love in the story, which was written especially for Miss Hepburn by Ring Lardner Jr. and Michael Kanin. The oddity-matched pair marry and when the bride is named the most important woman of the year, her outside affairs cause her to neglect home and husband.

The inevitable break between them is solved by their mutual intelligence, each discovering that it is possible to carry on a career, yet continue to maintain marriage and a home.

Fay Bainter and Reginald Owen have featured roles, with a supporting cast which includes Minor Watson, William Bendix, Ludwig Stossel, Sara Haden and George Kezas, in a juvenile part. George Stevens, who directed Miss Hepburn in "Alice Adams," was again in charge for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Constitution Want Ads are go-getters for speedy merchandising results.

Edgewood Bridge Pronounced Safe

The Edgewood avenue bridge, closed to traffic as a safety measure Monday night, was reopened to one-way auto traffic and two-way street car traffic yesterday morning after Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction and his aides made a thorough examination of the damage heavy rains did to a retaining wall.

Donaldson pronounced the bridge safe, saying the rains had not undermined the structure's supports. The viaduct was closed to automobile and street car traffic after reports that the north wall had been damaged to such an extent that further use might be dangerous.

Close Harmony Tunesters Will Sing for Army

New Belmont Quartet Makes Its Bow at Kiwanis Meeting.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.
The Barber Shop Quartet, that carefree, chanting choral unit that takes the dulcet tunes, sprinkles in a little close harmony, and makes music come out everywhere, is heading for Uncle Sam's Army camps.

Some folk remember the Saturday night corner barber shop conflagration when all the male citizenry congregated for shaves, mustache groomings, shoe shines, and some real close harmony. Some recall the pre-jazz era minstrel shows when the Beau Brummels, with their mustache-draped lips, derby hats and swaggy sticks harmonized. These men who remember the fun of close harmony have organized themselves into a group known as the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing.

So when the USO doesn't send the army boys programs to entertain them, and when the post doesn't offer free movies or stage shows, or when the Army doesn't have some work for the men to do, then the quartet society will take over with its influx of a lead voice, a tenor, a baritone and a bass.

All those fellows who have "come up through the alley" such folks as Bing Crosby, Jim Farley and Atlanta's own John Clotworthy, Paul Crutchfield, Maurice Frye and Frank Norton—these and many others are backing the organization of some 15,000 members. One of the major objectives is to interest soldiers in close harmony. Another is to keep American morale truly American, even though some of the finishing touches have to be dug up from a decade or so ago. Then another aim is to make folks everywhere have a good time—enjoy themselves the simple way—and they figure there isn't a better way than with the barber shop quartets.

The foursome of Clotworthy, Crutchfield-Frye-Norton has been "comin' up" the alley for years. They started some 10 or 15 years ago, then sort of drifted apart, but they're back in the running again. The group made its debut as the New Belmont quartet yesterday at the Kiwanis Club luncheon. They appeared in the traditional white waiter's coat with a towel thrown across their arms and twirling, drooling late 19th century mustaches flopping over

PageLeon Henderson! Alabama Outbids Georgia for Moonshine

Alabama's high prices for illicit rum is tempting Georgia moonshiners, in the opinion of John A. Douglas, acting southeastern supervisor for the Federal Alcohol Tax Bureau.

Douglas has recently received information that nontax-paid liquor is selling in Birmingham for $4.50 per gallon, while locally, he said, the commodity can be purchased for $2 or less.

Yesterday Douglas received a report in his office here, that federal agents, while working near Anniston, Ala., had captured a truck with a Georgia license plate, containing 907 gallons of the mountain product. Three men were arrested, two of whom gave a Dawsonville, Ga., address.

More Firms Join In Bond Program

The Treasury Department yesterday announced a list of 17 Georgia business firms, including four in Atlanta, whose employees are now buying a certain amount of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps out of their weekly and monthly salaries.

The others are the William Carter Company, Barnesville; Crystal Springs Bleachery, Chickamauga; Hardaway Contracting Company, Columbus; Hosiery Processing Company, Rossville; Jefferson Mills No. 1, Jefferson; H. V. Kelly Company, Griffin; John P. King Manufacturing Company, Augusta; B. H. Levy Brothers & Company, Savannah; Murphy Pound, Columbus; North Georgia Processing Company, Toccoa; Pepper-Cotton Mills, Jackson; the Smiths, Inc., Barnesville, and Thomaston Cotton Mills, Thomaston.

23 Filipino Women, Children Killed as Japs Bomb Bataan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur reported today that Japanese fliers who have been dropping propaganda leaflets professing great friendship for the Filipinos, have now substituted bombs for pamphlets, and have killed 18 Filipino women and five children in a refugee camp behind the Bataan peninsula battle line.

Meanwhile, Japanese pressure upon MacArthur's troops was steadily growing. Air activity was on the increase; artillery fire in greater volume was prominent all along the battle line. Japanese guns ashore pounded the American island fortifications in Manila bay, but did no great damage.

Judges Samuel Sibley of the circuit court of appeals, E. Marvin Underwood of the northern district and Bascom Deaver of the southern district will conduct the hearing.

Stewart will be represented by A. L. Henson, the state by Clifford Walker and the federal civil service commission by L. V. Mealey. District Attorney Lawrence Camp and a special assistant to the attorney general, Sidney J. Kaplan, of Washington, also will participate.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"
Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Aid in Recovering Dye for Munitions Pledged by Many Groups.

The girls in the various federal war agencies around town learned yesterday they'd really started something in following the leadership of Marian Thompson, of the War Production Board's regional headquarters, 150 Hurt building, in assembling used postage stamps to recover the dye for munitions.

Offers to help came from—Operators and youthful members of a widespread club composed of listeners to a very popular radio program.

Negro Arrested In Snatch Thefts

Atlanta police yesterday believed they had the solution to between 20 and 30 snatch thefts which have occurred on the north side within the last two months, with the arrest of Robert Lee Garrison, Negro, 20, of a Bedford place address.

Detectives L. L. Hause and C. R. Allen said last night the suspect had confessed. Six pocketbooks have been recovered, they said.

The Negro admitted he took part in several burglaries, besides the snatch thefts, the detectives said. Patrolmen E. L. Sikes and W. J. Anderson apprehended the suspect Monday night.

Getting Down to Concrete Cases: 12-Brick Blocks Streamlined

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Members of the National Concrete Masonry Association will never forget this World War and its defense projects that jolted them into the realization that for the last 10 years they've been in a rut.

For no reason at all, it seems, the accepted block of concrete masonry has been the 12-brick size.

Everywhere in the United States—north, east, south or west—when a block of concrete masonry for building construction was turned out, it was the cubic equivalent of 12 accepted, bona fide bricks, with the usual layers of mortar.

No one knows how the manufacturers ever allowed themselves to get into such a rut. Thousands upon thousands of concrete blocks are turned out in plants all over the nation every day, and all have been the 12-brick size.

Next year, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the national association in the ballroom of the Biltmore hotel, things are going to be different.

The national concrete masonry manufacturers responded with thunderous applause to a suggestion that hereafter concrete blocks be turned out in the six-brick size.

So, that's the program for 1942—six-brick blocks of concrete masonry and, so that the manufacturers won't merely be slipping from a 12-brick rut into a six-brick rut, they decided to make both sizes.

"Every manufacturer in the United States," said E. E. Dienhart, of Chicago, "has been making this same size block every since concrete stepped in and supplanted plain old clay bricks and wood."

"We realize now that we should make a product that has more flexibility."

About 125 concrete men from the south-east gathered for the southeastern session, one of several that have been held in various parts of the nation.

John L. Strandberg, of Kansas City, is president of the association, and John S. Chase, of Dallas, is chairman of the board.

War Problem! Soldiers Spurn Long Drawers

Army, However, Plans To Keep on Issuing Heavy Garments.

A situation of no little moment was occupying strategists of the southern sector yesterday—the boys in the Army camps haven't been wearing their longies. That is, speaking from a statistical point of view, they haven't. Here and there one did, of course.

In preparing for the change into lighter clothes this spring, members of the staff of Colonel James R. Alfante, Fourth Corps Area quartermaster, found union suits that were issued to soldiers last fall but never worn.

Further interesting developments included a practice among the hardy defenders of America to cut off arms and legs, which they called "panhandles," when forced to don the garments. It simply was a case of rugged constitutions, officers found.

"But," declared Lieutenant Colonel William F. Riter, supply officer, "we are going to keep right on issuing 'panhandles,' and we're glad to keep the boys warm. Sooner or later they'll hit a climate where they'll find the thick garments mighty welcome."

160,000 Sign Up In New Registration

State selective service lists were bolstered to something between 585,000 and 590,000 names by the weekend registration of men aged 20 through 44, Lieutenant Colonel H. Cliff Hatcher, assistant state director of selective service, reported yesterday.

The new group of enrollees, estimated at from 160,000 to 165,000 strong on early reports from local draft boards, will be added to the list of 425,000 men already signed up in two previous registrations.

The next step for draft boards is the allotment of serial numbers following which a national lottery will be held, probably next month, to determine the order in which the new potential selectees will be classified or called up for service.

Jap Singapore Losses Set at 200 Pilots

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 17.—(AP)—The Japanese lost at least 200 pilots in the battle for Singapore, according to information given the news agency Aneta by three Australian fliers who escaped to Java in the final hours of the siege.

The young pilots said that last Saturday, with the Japanese already in possession of the Kelang airbase, they repaired their damaged planes in a nearby garage, and took off for Java through a hail of enemy machinegun fire.

F.C. Becker Named To Veterans Post

F. C. "Freddie" Becker, former adjutant of the Betty Harrison Jones Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, yesterday was commissioned deputy chief of staff to National Commander Laurence R. Melton, of Dallas, Texas, to serve for the duration of the war.

A member of the Americanism committee of the Disabled American Veterans, Becker has just completed a 2,700-mile trip throughout the state, appearing before school and civic groups to point out the part they can take in the war effort. Becker served as a machinegunner in the Third Division and was wounded twice. He saw action in the Somme offensive, Chateau-Thierry, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

Calls for Care

The difficulties faced by a free people when they are thrust into modern war find apt illustration in a bill Attorney General Biddle has requested the congress to enact. On the one hand the bill is designed to guard against important war secrets of the government becoming public knowledge—which includes enemy knowledge—while on the other hand the bill places tremendous and, in normal times, utterly undesirable power in the hands of all and sundry federal agencies.

The problem calling for most careful study and consideration by the congress as well as the public generally, is whether or not the urgency of war makes desirable this placing of undue power in the hands of government agencies.

The bill, in brief, would make it a criminal offense to divulge or publish any document which is in the custody of the government and which any federal agency has designated as secret and confidential.

According to the wording of the bill, any federal agency could, by the mere action of placing a "secret" label on documents involved, practice any sort of skulduggery whatsoever and no one would ever know about it. Freedom of the press, in its important function of guarding the people against either incompetents, muddleheads or crooks in public service, would become the merest chimera under such a bill. It would be totally at the whim of any government servant.

No American hesitates at the temporary abandonment of some of his cherished freedoms if such action is necessary for the successful prosecution of the war. Yet it is possible for this abandoning of freedoms, even in war time, to go too far. There is a serious question if the powers asked in the attorney general's bill do not go too far.

Censorship, as it is now constituted, has been uniformly successful. Co-operation of the newspapers and magazines has been voluntary and as complete as possible under a system which is undergoing its natural shaking-down. The power to crack down upon any recalcitrant is possessed by the censor.

A free press is the people's strongest guarantee of honest government. Yet this Biddle bill would strike at the heart of this free press and would make possible the most vicious kind of frauds under the complete immunity of the "secret" label.

It is highly dangerous and should be closely examined by the congress. It should at best be rephrased if it is finally determined necessary to protect vital documents.

William C. Vereen

The death of William C. Vereen, of Moultrie, removes from the Georgia scene a man whose name was synonymous with civic enthusiasm and quiet charity. A builder and a creator, Mr. Vereen devoted his life to the improvement of his home county, Colquitt, and to the advancement of his state, Georgia.

A native of South Carolina, Mr. Vereen came to Georgia as a young man, when the naval stores industry was just beginning in the pristine forests of south Georgia. With but little capital, he nevertheless built a career marked by outstanding success.

But it was as a builder of his community and as a helping friend to his fellowman that Mr. Vereen was most distinguished. Scarcely a successful business or industrial enterprise in Moultrie which did not feel the touch of his organizing genius.

Tremendously successful in business and industry, yet he gave most, and will be best remembered, as a community leader, a public servant, an educator and church leader.

Never Mind the Sugar Coating

Congress, if it will, can save a lot of allegorical sugar when it writes its next tax bill. For the people know the war has to be paid for, they are prepared to pay until it hurts, badly, and will be happy at the opportunity to assure, in so far as their dollars can, the continuance of an American government that takes taxes, rather than submission to an enemy government that will exact tribute.

So, congress can concoct our next tax pills and leave off the customary sugar-coating. It will be all right by us.

One thing is sure, the time when any class of citizen could expect to escape direct taxation is gone. To increase revenue from taxes, under present revenue proportions, means that the base has to be just so broad as the population. Every individual will have to contribute.

Illustrative of the impossibility of depending upon taxes paid by the rich to assume most of the burden, is the fact that if the government took all—100 per cent—of the income of everyone in the United States making, or receiving, $5,000 a year or more, the revenue derived would last less than 60 days at the present rate of national expenditure.

The people, as a whole, will approve frankness about this tax question. They don't want any more of the ancient weak attempts at camouflage by which congressmen sought to lessen the tax blow upon their own constituents.

For instance, if the proposal to raise $2,000,000,000 through increasing the Social Security pay roll tax is approved, let's call it what it will be, a war tax, not label it with the phony designation of social security. Phoney, that is, except to the extent that if we don't win the war, we shall have no security at all, social or otherwise.

The people are ready to pay and the more popular congressmen will be those who frankly recognize this fact, devise a tax bill which doesn't attempt to dodge the issue and which will, thus, be honest with the people.

The time has passed for dissimulation, on taxes or anything else.

Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week, observed nationally for the ninth time this year, began on Sunday and will continue through next Sunday.

With most of the world locked in desperate conflict, it may seem futile to speak of brotherhood now. Yet we are fighting to make secure for all of us the four freedoms of thought and action which represent brotherhood in practice.

Freedom of speech—freedom of religion—freedom from want—freedom from fear. These are our objectives, now and always. We must not, in the struggle to guarantee them tomorrow, lose sight of them today.

War-time stresses and strains will put ever heavier burdens on our minds and spirits. War-time activities of enemy agents and native stooges of the Axis will take advantage of this tension. We must guard against both.

No matter how tired or depressed or worried we are, we cannot let ourselves turn against fellow Americans of other faiths or viewpoints. We cannot let ourselves believe enemy propaganda, rumors, whispers about fellow Americans.

As President Roosevelt has said, in emphasizing the keynote of this year's Brotherhood Week observance, "We in America need more than armaments and armies to make safe our democracy. We need a secure bond of understanding among all citizens and, even more, the practice of brotherhood and of willing co-operation among Americans of every creed and racial origin."

Brotherhood Week should be more than a "week" that is here and gone. Let's put the idea of brotherhood—of equality and unity always—to work in our daily lives from now on.

Georgia Editors Say:

GEORGIA A LEADER

(From The Moultrie Observer.)

A lot of discrediting things have been said about grand old Georgia. They charge that we are poor, that we have small incomes, that we are behind in education, and that we elect bad governors. The Empire State of the South may be lacking in some things, but she has an abundance of other things. Just the other day we saw the newspaper headline "Georgia Leads." That was like a tonic. Chest out and a smile forming. Georgia leads? Why not Georgia? Have we not been hearing that it is "great to be a Georgian?" Of course it is great. We are not moving to any other state. We are not selling Georgia short. Sometimes we feel tempted to advertise Georgia's superiority. We turned again to the headlines, deciding to get the details. It would be useful for an editorial. We got the low-down on it: "Georgia leads in bootlegging." Stung again. Still we stick to Georgia. She is like a faithful wife. You can quit liking her but you can't quit loving her.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

JAPANESE AIR WARNING WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—An important discovery made by the Navy in its highly successful attack on enemy fortifications in the Gilbert Islands was the Japanese apparently have nothing comparable to the scientific aircraft warning system we and the British have perfected.

The fact that our planes and ships were able to move in so close to the mandated islands without being detected until the bombs began to fall, is evidence enough, naval authorities say, that the Japs have no similar instruments. It is assumed, of course, that the instruments would have been manned if the Japs had anything of the kind.

Unlike the attack on Pearl Harbor, which was an act of treachery committed while we were at peace, the comparable surprise blow we struck in the Gilbert Islands should have found the Japanese more on the alert. Certainly they had more cause to anticipate an attack there than we did at Hawaii, some 2,000 miles distant.

In accepting the conclusion that the Japs just didn't have the scientific detecting instrument—naval observers rule out the possibility that they might have been napping as we were at Pearl Harbor. At our own outpost the instruments were installed and in operation on the morning of the fateful December 7 attack. Through seemingly the worst kind of official negligence, they just happened not to be manned at the time by a trained crew.

The Roberts report has amply dramatized the omission by telling of the young private tinkering with the instruments off duty and trying to warn his superiors of the approach of an unidentified squadron of planes 130 miles away. Had a trained crew been in charge of the warning system that morning, the story of Pearl Harbor might have been far different.

OBVIOUS ADVANTAGE Knowledge that the Japanese are not equipped with the scientific devices may offer a valuable piece of information in relation to other air attacks we may have in the making. It suggests an obvious advantage in both offensive and defensive operations, once our forces are sufficiently mobilized to permit us to take the initiative in the Pacific.

Other scientific achievements of our Navy promise even greater advantages when the time comes for their employment. They are all military secrets of the first order, but some startling surprises (for us) and some dreadful consequences (to the Japs) are in store.

Aside from the advances made before the present world conflict started, there has been functioning now for a year a body of eminent American scientists, headed by President Conant, of Harvard University, whose sole purpose is to apply scientific discoveries to the art of making war. It is one of the far-sighted moves made by President Roosevelt long ago. The scientific board, working in close co-operation with British seers, has already produced sensational results. President Conant himself has privately admitted as much.

If there is any impatience on the part of the public to see some of these achievements put to a practical military purpose, the only answer to be given is that we must wait until our naval and air strength is developed to a proper striking force. The surprise blow of treachery we took at Pearl Harbor is little more than two months old. Enough time has not passed to correct the injury done. A thing not to be forgotten is the now known fact that the Japs had been actively planning their Pacific moves for at least a year, whereas we had refused to treat threats of war with them too seriously.

MONTHS OF REVERSES DUE Little news of an encouraging nature may therefore be expected for some months, as most of our government officials have warned from the beginning. The bitter blow in the loss of Singapore may be followed by others before the tide turns.

In the meantime, we may take heart from developments which, while of lesser importance, still offer convincing evidence of our ultimate supremacy.

Take the raid we staged on the Gilbert Islands, for example. There we sank 16 Japanese ships, including cruisers, carriers, destroyers, submarines and transports, without the loss of a single vessel of our own. Our net loss was about 11 planes.

Naval officials attribute the high success of the mission not only to a perfectly executed surprise attack, but to the superiority of our ships, our men, our marksmanship, our pilots, planes and guns.

AND IN MACASSAR We also accounted for ourselves pretty well in the battle of the Straits of Macassar, where about a third of a huge Japanese convoy was crippled or destroyed. So far as official evidence is known, we failed to lose a single ship in that engagement. The main body of the attacking force was American, but British and Dutch air units actively co-operated, of course.

There is yet to be a head-on clash between Japanese and American forces of the first line. As the reasoning of naval experts go, the Japs are expected to seek to avoid it, except as an act of final desperation, should we begin to close in on them. An island empire like the British, once their naval power is gone they would have no connecting link with the outlying territory they have conquered.

If it does come—as come it will as soon as our forces are developed to proper strength—Navy men have every confidence in the ability of our fleet to give a decisive account of itself. What happened in the Gilbert Islands and the Straits of Macassar justifies our confidence.

Transportation Changes.

Having occasion, on the past weekend, to go to Brunswick and Sea Island on business, I determined not to use my precious tires on a trip that long, I traveled by bus.

The first experience of its kind for me, save for one short trip to Griffin and back—quite a few years ago. I found it a not uncomfortable mode of travel, with reclining seats in the bus and other conveniences, with courteous personnel and so forth, save for the unavoidable fact that it is difficult to sleep on a bus. Not for a doze, but every time you doze into horn or slow down or stop. Unavoidable, of course.

But it seems to me everyone else is trying the same method of saving rubber. I mean traveling by some public conveyance instead of driving their own car. I understand passenger traffic on the trains is much greater than it was before the ban on new cars and tires.

Leaving Atlanta early Sunday morning, I drove close to the bus station and parked my car in a well-known garage for the two days I'd be gone. The man at the garage told me his business had doubled since January 1, all because of businessmen who left their cars there for two, three, four days or more, while they made their trips by bus. "I've got my basement full, right now," he said, "of such cars here for two days or more."

I found the bus companies running three or four buses where one served all their clientele not so long ago. And I contacted numbers of passengers who said, like me, it was their first experience on a bus. You could tell they were telling the truth, too, by their evident strangeness about the regulations.

There was, for instance, the elderly lady who had lost her purse because she didn't know it should be checked and had trusted a small-town taxi-driver to take care of it for her.

Aristocrats

Of the Highway.

These bus drivers are the aristocrats of the highways. At least, in the eyes of the girls who wait for them in the small town and roadside eating places, in the opinion of the agents and porters and other aides at the bus stations.

Good-looking, husky fellows, all of these drivers. Snappy appearance in the uniform, too. They are not only excellent drivers, but their very demeanor inspires that desirable feeling of complete confidence on the part of the passengers.

Lots of interesting human nature, too, to be seen. There were the occupants of the other front seat, going south toward Brunswick. An awfully pretty southern girl and a northern boy in sailor uniform. "Coast Guard" on his cap. Boy was getting rather bored of it in a discussion about the War Between the States, until a soldier-uniformed lad from Pennsylvania joined in. He was kidding the girl in expert fashion until a young lady, some four or five years of age, in the seat behind, scornfully dubbed the Pennsylvania, "Butterscotch." The significance I didn't catch, but from then on the boy was Butterscotch to everyone. Bet it sticks to him in camp, too.

There was the driver, with a bus load of which nine-tenths of the passengers were from the north, who amused himself and other southerners present by announcing his stops and schedule and so forth in an exaggerated imitation of a northerner's conception of a southern dialect. You can imagine!

There was an attractive girl, headed for Eastman. Had been with a sick sister for a week, she said, and was on her way home after a week's separation, the first, from her baby.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Worked On CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Edmund Scott, a reporter for PM, the strange journalistic whizzit who Marshall Field runs in New York, has written a shocking account of conditions aboard the Normandie and along the New York waterfront, generally, under the domination of the Longshoremen's union of the AFL which is an unconscionable racket with a long underworld history. For authentic background on this union read "Dock-Walloper," the memoirs of Dick Butler, an old underworld character who formerly was an official of the racket along the Chelsea piers and as a side job delivered Harry Thaw from Matteawan, a historic jail-break. It was ghosted by Joseph Driscoll, I believe, and not only reads well but checks well against the known facts of life on the west side waterfront.

Scott recently was assigned to obtain work as a longie aboard the Normandie. He joined the union at a cost of $25, marked down from the standard price of $100, without the slightest inquiry and was put to work on the Normandie notwithstanding his own intimation to the business agent of the Longshoremen that he had been "in trouble" and might be using a false name. Incidentally, the percentage of criminals working along the North river docks is high. Common alley criminals, of course, may be loyal Americans but the disposition to permit men to change identity and ask no questions obviously opens the door to the enemy agents.

Officer Scott was picked for the Normandie job by the union and when he had written his story, his editors spiked it because, they report, it was "a blueprint for sabotage." However, PM says the gist of the piece was communicated to Captain Charles H. Zeerfoss, the chief of the anti-sabotage division of the Maritime Commission, and that Zeerfoss scoffed and explained the paper to get Scott out of there "before he gets shot."

Scott reported loafing by the men and himself, stalling a total of one and one-half hours in one day, looking himself in staterooms aboard the liner to smoke. He saw 20 open barrels of excelsior into which a saboteur could have tossed a match and learned that there were no precautions against sabotage by fire through any of the simple chemical devices which the Germans used freely to ignite cargoes in the last war.

The character of the Longshoremen's Union cannot be known to the FBI or any other government agency. It is a job monopoly extending to the vital shores of Staten Island and Jersey where racketeers rule with despotic power and prey on the men not only for fees and dues but for various shakedowns.

Several weeks ago these dispatches described the racket in general terms and a copious file of squeals and leads, including a copy of a report by a policeman who got nowhere against the political power of the criminals, was submitted to our desk. However, our best digger was otherwise engaged so asking comes Scott to tell the tale. I am rather glad PM did it because when I explode such stories they are instantly denounced as "labor baiting" by such journals which have played up to these rackets along with Mayor LaGuardia whose sympathy generally runs with pickets and union-busters and against his own cops whose loss of morale is largely attributable to that.

Qualifies The Longshoremen's union not only certifies the longies but actually qualifies the guards who are supposed to protect property on the piers and its fees for various classifications are comparable to those of some of the most exclusive clubs in the country.

The union was responsible for the rise of Harry Bridges because its acquiescence in the pitiless robbery and exploitation of the workers put them in a mood to adopt any leader who would pretend to be their friend even though he should exploit them, himself, in the interests of the Communist conspiracy. Bridges is the only alternative they know now although one small catholic labor school is making a little progress in the story of Edmund Scott in last Tuesday's issue of PM which certainly will not be accused of union-baiting, having started life with a large Communist cell on the editorial side and buttered the union fakers consistently down to now.

The buses down along the highway and who ride "down the road" are a long wait of more than three hours in Savannah, for a connection. It got fearfully tiring, standing and sitting around. And none of the Savannah friends I could have seen were at home. At least, they weren't within hearing of the telephone.

I expect the trains are similarly crowded, nowadays. I wonder how the bus lines are fixed for times? If need arises, I'll probably use the buses again and I hope their rubber holds out.

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, February 1902: "The plan to erect a four-hundred-thousand-dollar courthouse on the Inman lot went up in smoke yesterday afternoon. The indications now are there will be no new courthouse at all, and probably no new jail."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

OH, FIDDLE-DE-DEE—OR WORSE Of all the lame and halt excuses offered in support of the infamous pension bill for congressmen, is the one that will protect him from political pressure groups.

But, they hasten to say, this does not mean he takes graft. Well, if they give in to political pressure, as we must assume has been customary on the part of those who use this as an excuse, it means they have been giving in to things in which they didn't believe. They got something out of it for "giving in."

If it was just re-election or freedom from pressure, then that was the price paid by the "pressures" for getting what they wanted. We have had a naive idea all along that we expected our political representatives in congress to resist or support on the basis of character and belief.

If it requires a pension to strengthen their backbones, then something is radically wrong with government. Maybe it is just as bad as some have insisted. Maybe they don't represent the people, but are swayed and governed by every group which can exert pressure.

Where does that little fellow known as the Average Citizen come in?

Who represents him? The poor fellow is shocked that he has to pay a pension to get honest representation. Or, shall we say, "representation free from pressure groups?"

Oh, fiddle-dee-dee! Or worse! I still say that old Andy Jackson would turn over in his grave if he knew this sort of thing was going on in congress. For that matter, a lot of people are spinning around about it. All the perfumes in Araby are not going to wash the odor of this thing out of the public mind.

THE COVER UP It will be noted there no longer is insistence and well known to all the congress.

Too many congressmen came forward to say they didn't know the pension provision was in the bill.

How could they have known. These are facts: Excepting in the enacting clause, and one reference to "employees of the senate and house of representatives," neither the congress, nor senate, nor house of representatives is mentioned in it.

The effective words used are: "Employees and officers in or under the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the United States government."

Now, a senator or a congressman is not an officer, as that term is used in the constitution of the United States.

The language is not calculated to apprise even a constitutional lawyer that pensions were meant. Most assuredly the congressmen, not in on the scheme, could not be expected to interpret it. There should be no criticism of congressmen who say they didn't know it was in the bill. A constitutional lawyer would not have seen it in the bill.

It will be recalled that when the official "objector" in the house asked for an explanation he was told it was "merely" a bill to amend certain features of the civil service retirement act. I say in all sincerity, and completely without any anger, that all this adds up to an effort to conceal the real purpose; that it was shrewdly done and cleverly concealed.

The language is not calculated to apprise even a constitutional lawyer that pensions were meant. Most assuredly the congressmen, not in on the scheme, could not be expected to interpret it. There should be no criticism of congressmen who say they didn't know it was in the bill. A constitutional lawyer would not have seen it in the bill.

Why all the concealing language?

WORST OF ALL Yesterday I talked with a young man who has been selected to enter service through his selective service board. It was a borderline case. By that I mean he had some dependency which might have been enough to hold him out.

He moved his family dependents into a house with his sister. He gave up a good job in which he had shown promise and in which he had had promotion.

There are thousands of such young men who were doing well in jobs with promising futures. They could have, within a few more years, been in a position to begin making their old age more or less secure through insurance and annuities.

They have given it up to go into the Army. There are businessmen seeing their businesses, the work of their lives, destroyed or dislocated because of the war.

There are families sending off their sons and husbands, and making real sacrifices to do so, and not grumbling about it. It was a time like this that congress picked to make itself secure.

The public is angry because congress was even thinking about its personal security at a time when the world is on fire and the security of everyone else is in danger.

It seems to most of the people that even if there had been merit to this effort by congress to make itself free to be honest in its dealings with pressure groups, this was not the time to be working for their own personal security.

It was an affront to every mother and father sending a boy into the Marines, the Army or the Navy; that their congressmen should be spending hours of time working for their own personal financial security.

It seems to me that congress should, as many of its members have done, admit it was a mistake and repeal it most promptly. If congress is such a burden the members can solve it by not offering for re-election.

A Wound Hurts No Less Because

It Is Made by a Friend

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

"If it comes," said men of understanding, "the common people will do their part; the only failure we have to fear is that of our leaders."

That prophecy has already come true. The little people were asked to serve in the ranks and they came forward by the million—many of them not even waiting to be called.

The little people were asked to give to the Red Cross; to bear heavier taxes; to buy defense stamps and bonds; and they responded generously.

Doing their duty means real sacrifice. It means stew instead of beefsteak. It means patched clothing. It means fewer movies and ice cream cones for the kids. It means good-bye to customary luxuries and pleasures, but the little people do not complain. They have a job to do.

But what of the big people—the leaders—the senators and representatives—the honorables who strut in plug hats and make patriotic speeches?

In plain and simple words, they sold us out. They were asked to make a law that would prevent inflation. They knew what inflation would do to us. They knew it would double the cost of the war, and thus double taxes. They knew it would double the cost of living, and make the little people suffer.

They also knew how to prevent it. They had only to freeze prices—wages, rents, farm prices, metal prices, everything. Any bunch of high school kids could have done it—and would have done it.

But the honorables played politics. Instead of freezing prices of farm products, they authorized an increase of 10 per cent to 25 per cent—and gave Secretary Wickard power to increase them

Dudley Glass

Georgia supreme court has held, in effect, that everybody reads the newspapers and if they don't they should. Especially their home county newspapers.

Let me make haste to explain the court didn't come right out and say that. But it did hold that newspaper advertising for foreclosure proceedings for a past due mortgage — if the "legal ad" in proper form appears for four weeks, means no formal notice to the debtor is required.

That sounds like common sense. I know that only a small proportion of the population in the average rural county subscribe to the paper. But that doesn't keep a debtor from hearing he's been "advertised." Everybody who sees his name in the item will make haste to tell him about it. He applies even to the big dailies. Few readers, I think, peruse every item in The Constitution. A day's work is to be done at the office. But nobody ever "had his name in the paper" without hearing about it from the first acquaintance he met after the item was printed.

Another American battleship was launched a few days ago. Your Columnist does not pose as a military or naval expert, but he can't help wondering about the value of battleships except as targets for bombs from the air.

Those German vessels made a successful dash — apparently — from Brest to the North sea. But under blankets of fog and with protection by air fleets.

It has been proved difficult to drop a bomb on a ship from a high altitude. But a dive bomber with a crew not afraid to take a long chance, can sometimes get one.

The new war is bewildering. Once it was only necessary to guard against other ships on the surface of the sea. Now there is hidden peril from below and sudden danger from above. It's a three-dimensional war.

Passing It On

Mistress of the Manor rarely contributes an item to this column, though she welcomes the pay check, or most of it.

But yesterday circumstances took her to the Terminal station, in an automobile. She discovered six young chaps in uniform, members of an air force, on the way from somewhere to somewhere else, with a few hours between trains.

In a burst of patriotism, she asked if she might drive them home. Their first desire was breakfast, at a fairly good place. The Mistress of the Manor, who rarely has a chance to eat any cooking but her own, took them to the only food spot she knows well, the old Herrin's, just behind the Rialto. And she buttonholed Guido Negri, proprietor.

"Guido," quoth she, "give these Yankee boys their breakfast and charge them a quarter each. Keep a memo of the difference and my dear husband, who never buys me a meal, will come by and settle, after pay day."

Negri found them a table and handed them the menu card. "Order anything, gentlemen," said he, "from the bottom to the top, through the middle. The check will be on the house."

Now, I call that an example of southern hospitality, at second hand. The Mistress of the Manor makes a grand gesture — and Guido Negri, an Austro-Italian but a long naturalized American, gets stuck for the bill.

I must drop around and ask how much those hungry Yanks ate. I'll bet it was plenty.

Language of Stamps
English and Canadian postage stamps bear inscriptions of the King. And I'm taking Dr. Wightman's Melton's word for it that in Canada — he doesn't mention England — if a letter is mailed with the stamp upside down it's no good. Sent back to the sender.

All of us have tremendous respect for Washington and Jefferson and all the other notables who have attained fame — or added to it — by the postage stamp route.

But who bothers about licking a stamp and sticking it on upside down or sideways? We've paid for it and we're entitled to get delivery for it.

Except, perhaps, the young lovers of both sexes, who have studied in a ten-cent mail-order booklet, the "Language of Stamps." In that code a stamp upside down means: "I love you dearly." Or maybe it's "farewell forever."

Have lost my book of instructions. A stamp stuck on sideways means something else, which I've forgotten also.

All I wish is the post office department would discover a brand of stickum which would refuse to stick to anything except an envelope. I buy stamps and put them in my wallet and they stick to it and the backs of unpaid bills and everything within sight. But they decline to stick to an envelope. So I have to rummage around and borrow somebody's mucilage and handle a sticky brush and get goo up to my elbows.

You never can tell. Dainty blond who would weigh, I'd guess, 95 pounds in her open-toed sandals, dropped in yesterday to contribute an item.

Now, thought I, I'll have to ask her to talk just a little louder, because she'll have one of those teeny-weeny wren's voices which should take an amplifier along.

Wrong again. That midget could sing "Asleep in the Deep" against the best bass in any quartet.

Interfering With Radio
Laid to Suspect in Cuba
HAVANA, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A Spanish Falangist was arrested today on a charge of "systematic radio interference" with the United States naval station at Guantanamo, Antonio, Falco, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, said that the suspect, Luis Barcena Cardin, chief of a local radio station plant, had interfered deliberately with the United States broadcasts and that he was a member of the Spanish party.

WANTS 5c CAR FARE FOR ATLANTA RIDERS

Editor, Constitution: December 2, 1941, I wrote you about a 5c car fare for Atlanta, pointing out that Augusta, Macon, Rome and Columbus enjoyed a 5c fare, such fare being given by the power company, which operates all these traction lines, and sustained in its discriminatory action by the Public Service Commission.

The power company claims operating costs are higher here, being the reason we have to pay a 10c cash fare or a token fare of 7 1/2c when two tokens are purchased. Of course operating costs are higher here, but there are many times more people hauled per mile here than in these other towns; therefore, the net revenue should be greater.

The Public Service Commission claims the power company is not earning 6 per cent and, therefore, Atlanta cannot be allowed a 5c fare. Why should Atlanta be made to pay through the nose and let these other places be given preference? Right is right and it wrongs no man!

A. L. ELLIS.

PREFERS MORE TAXES TO NATIONAL LOTTERY

Editor, Constitution: I have just read Gladstone Williams' analysis of the proposed national lottery. It seems to me that there have been of late too many "trial balloons" sent up in an effort to create a public opinion in favor of this form of legalized gambling. Do the sponsors of this bill think they can encourage the lottery for the "duration" and cut it off immediately thereafter when it is a known fact that the fruits of this sort of thing will be the lowering of the morals of the whole nation? Few evils corrupt character as rapidly as gambling.

If it is going to require two additional dollars from each citizen each month, I prefer to pay it in taxes knowing that it is going solely into the defense effort rather than to be selfish enough to want a lottery so that 25 per cent will be returned regardless of the cost to the character of our nation. Our acceptance of this proposal would be as bad a reflection upon the citizens of our country as the "pension grab" seems to have been upon congress.

Buchanan, Ga.

RED CROSS CHAIRMAN THANKS CONSTITUTION

Editor, Constitution: As the war relief drive of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross draws near the close—a successful close, we feel very humble inside. Much of the credit of the campaign should go to the Atlanta Constitution, as has been the case in the roll call drives of many years past. The co-operation that we have received from The Constitution has always been most generous and helpful.

Because of the appealing, generous publicity your paper gave, because of the ready, talented help of your city editor, your photographers and other employees, because of the space and lines donated, many contributions were made we would not otherwise have obtained.

We feel that our simple thanks is very inadequate for your splendid assistance and co-operation. Perhaps, however, as the American Red Cross goes to the aid of the soldiers everywhere, as the "Angels of Mercy" administer to the weak and needing children, as the Red Cross bends down to help the sick and the wanting all over the world, you will find them compensation for your generosity in this special war fund campaign.

Now, however, please accept our appreciation and that of the many whom the American Red Cross will help.

OBY T. BREWER, Chairman.

WHO SHALL WE SEND TO CONGRESS THIS FALL?

Editor, Constitution: I wonder who we are going to vote for this fall for congressmen?

The man who has been enjoying a nice fat income of $10,000 and extras a year from the government.

Not satisfied with that he voted himself a nice fat pension so that he can live "the life of Reilly" after he becomes 62 years old. (Why not 60?) Other people have to wait until they are 65 before they are entitled to a pension or old-age assistance. Try and get it then.

With thousands of people in this state getting hardly enough to eat, the government heels over head in war, and taxes climbing every day!

What a time for the government to vote itself a pension!

Atlanta.

PROMOTED—William Fritz, veteran divisional manager of the ready-to-wear department of Rich's, Inc., has been named a member of the firm's board of directors, Walter Rich, chairman, announced yesterday.

NAMED DIRECTOR—Miss Catherine Rice yesterday was named a member of the board of directors of Rich's, Inc., Walter Rich, chairman, announced. Miss Rice is the second woman to be named to the board.

2 Are Elected To Rich's Board Of Directors

Miss Catherine Rice, William Fritz Named at Meeting.

Two veteran department heads of Rich's, Inc.—Miss Catherine Rice and William Fritz—yesterday were elected members of the firm's board of directors, Walter Rich, chairman of the board, announced after the annual meeting of stockholders.

Miss Rice is the second woman ever to be named as a director of the institution. Two years ago Miss Annie Mae Gallagher was selected as a director.

Both of the new directors arose from modest positions and their careers parallel Alger heroes.

When Miss Rice first began working at the store, she was so small a box had to be provided for her. She has since grown to the counter, Rich said. She is a member of the 20-Year Club, organization of employees, and has spent her entire business career there. She is a native of Atlanta and is regarded as an authority in her line, which is merchandising manager of the small wares and accessories department. She lives at 58 Peachtree Memorial drive.

Fritz is divisional manager of the ready-to-wear department and has been affiliated with the company for about five years, coming to Atlanta from Omaha. He is a native of New York, but left there in 1920 to take up merchandising in the middle west. He entered his career as a floor man, was later a buyer and has been in merchandising management since 1927. He is married and has a son. The family lives at 567 Peachtree Battle avenue.

Rich pointed to the more and more important places in the world being taken by women and said that in a business catering to women, "who is better qualified to know their needs than women?"

Winthrop College Probe Is Ordered

Appointment of a committee to investigate charges of administrative irregularities at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., was announced yesterday by the commission on institutions of higher education of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at a meeting here.

The announcement said charges of administrative irregularities had been made by dismissed faculty members of Winthrop College. No details of the charges were given and the commission said they would be developed by the committee, which is expected to visit the college in April.

Winthrop is a state college for women. The two committee members head women's colleges.

Nurse Accused in Death Of Infant Is Indicted

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Irma Twiss, 38-year-old hospital nurse who police said fatally drugged a 20-hour-old infant with concentrated drops, was indicted for first-degree murder today by a Bronx county grand jury.

Miss Twiss was arrested February 8 after other nurses at the Bronx Maternity and Woman's hospital, where she worked, found the dead child. A second infant, four-day-old Elizabeth Fantagone, who also was said to have been given the drops, was saved by quick medical aid.

A Coin Cements a Friendship

I do not know my friend's name. I only know that he is an old gentleman, that his initials are R. B., that he lives in Birmingham, England, and that he is supported by an old-age pension. I know also that he is modest and shrinks from publicity.

He had something that he cherished, a memento of Britain's last golden age, when Britannia ruled the waves as the world's unchallenged premier power, when "Made in England" was the mark of the most superior goods, when "Sterling" was the measure of all sound values, when the world was basking in the calm sun of a peace that seemed eternal—the Pax Britannica held firmly but lightly by an intricate system of credits that could become sanctions, by a navy that none could or wished to challenge, and when, as in Britain's other greatest age, a woman sat upon the throne, appropriately named Victoria and was for Britain and the world the matriarchal symbol of substantial power and family virtue.

That world seemed eternal. Civilization, it appeared, had reached its pinnacle. An equilibrium had been established in which it seemed that freedom had been forever brought in gentle discipline to order, and order made tolerable by freedom.

Culture Bloomed.
The substantial middle class prosperity of the British Empire was reflected throughout most of the world and in it culture bloomed. Political serenity nourished prodigious intellectual and artistic achievement and titans dotted the landscape: Darwin, Marx, Kipling, Nietzsche, Wagner, the great French impressionist painters, Tolstoy, Dostoevsky. The United States were shadowed for four years in civil war, but the tragic experience threw up a Lincoln and a Whitman and gave birth to the first great concept of democracy.

The Victorian Age was more than a British epoch. It was a world epoch. And the world was open as it never had been. Men traveled and worked where they wished, without passports or permits, and everybody's money was good in anybody's banks. Only the prophetic could foresee, through the visions of titanic minds, that the wheel was turning, and Kipling, the glorifier of empire, could suddenly cry, "Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget!"

What my old and unknown friend cherished was a Victoria sovereign, a golden guinea, displaying the plump queen's regal profile. One can imagine him, in his pensioned old age in a war-torn paper and credit world, showing it to his grandchildren, and telling them of that British world of his youth.

I do not know what prompted him to give it away—that sovereign. To take it to the Honorable J. Smedley Crooke, member in the house of commons for Birmingham and ask him to send it anonymously to me.

"God Bless You."
"A present and a souvenir to Miss Dorothy Thompson," he wanted the inscription to read, "from an old-age pensioner who admires the friendship you had for England in her hour of distress."

May your writings help Democracy. . . . God bless you.

And so, after six weeks have passed, the sovereign is put into my hand by an official of "His Majesty's Government," transferring the Queen's profile from Birmingham to New York. I am singularly moved. There is so much in the gesture. There is, for instance, gratitude, a virtue of the proud and brave alone; a rare virtue that more than any other reveals the superior heart—a reticent and anonymous gratitude for friendship in an "hour of distress."

And gratitude for what? Only for recognition and testimony to a greatness in Britain that shines through her darkest hours as clearly as in her brightest; a recognition of the spirit of June, 1940, that looked into the abyss, and did not falter, and that unflinching still, gazed, comprehends and fights on.

There is, in the gesture, something else—a transference. It is as though my old friend said, "Here is a symbol of the pinnacle of our power. But the power of men of our tongue lies across the water today."

Releases Gratitude.
And he utters a word not Victoria's, "Democracy," accepting our world, the world of the massed people—Lincoln's world.

I hold the sovereign in my hand, and my friend's gratitude releases the gratitude in me. Gratitude for the tongue I speak; gratitude for the world of freedom, under law; gratitude for the concept "gentle" as applied to a man, and to power; gratitude for the stony gaze that glares at tyranny though the hands are weakened; gratitude for the dogged fight that makes death synonymous with defeat. And a question in my mind, too. Shall we do as well? Not shall we be perfect, but just: Shall we on the whole balance, do as well?

My friend sends Victoria to me through me to us—Victoria for Victory.

Stocks Leading Shares Score Losses

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Renewed war doubts assailed the stock market today and, while pressure was light throughout, leading issues suffered their most severe losses in a week.

The list lacked rising animation at the start and, as bidders withdrew in many cases, prices retreated fractions to a point or more. At the worst a few "blue chips" were off better than 1/2. Prices improved slightly here and there in the final hour.

Volume was negligible throughout and transfers for the full proceedings amounted to 389,100 shares compared with 378,180 the day before. It was another of the smallest aggregates since last June.

The consensus in the financial sector still was that the market had discounted to some extent the Singapore disaster and other allied reverses, but the question arose as to whether repercussions from Japanese Pan-Pacific conquests might yet have to be taken into account in adjusting speculative and investment portfolios.

Southern New England Telephone, in the curb, tumbled 2 1/2 points on a 20-share sale, first since December 1. Moderate losers were Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, Lake Shore and Pantepec.

The bond market made a half-hearted attempt to rally early in today's session, but soon stumbled over heavier offerings and ended with losses of fractions to a point ruling in the main groups.

Three Thrifty Americans

Washington, Lincoln and you

Abe Lincoln knew about thrift in a log cabin on the Sangamon River in Illinois. He learned economy splitting rails, putting up fences, keeping a store in New Salem. George Washington was thrifty, too, on a plantation in Virginia, not through necessity, but because he was a wise manager and a good business man. You're thrifty because it's smart to be that way regardless of circumstances;

War Time Cuts Movie Receipts, Exhibitor Says

Points Out Housewives, School Children Unable To Go Now.

War activities and "war time" are cutting deep into movie box office receipts, J. H. Thompson, of Hawkinsville, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Georgia, said yesterday.

Children in small towns can't go to matinees any more because under the new time they don't get out of school until 4:30, and parents don't like it if they get home so late.

Housewives, on the other hand, can't go often because they are busy taking first-aid courses. Between the two situations, movie house owners have quite a problem on their hands, Thompson said.

They are willing to do their part in sacrificing for victory, but they feel that continued successful operation of the moving picture business is a vital factor in national morale.

These problems were discussed yesterday at the Henry Grady hotel as the moving picture group completed its organization with adoption of a constitution and by-laws. The officers elected in November were retained. Besides Thompson, they are Ed Beach, of Thomaston, vice president; Hopson Johnston, of Vidalia, treasurer; and Mrs. Willingham Wood, of Washington, secretary. Speakers at the meeting included Harlee Branch Jr., of Atlanta, and R. B. Wilby, of the Wilby-Kinney theater chain.

RUMOR FACTORY—President Roosevelt yesterday cited the above cartoon, which appeared on the front page of the Washington Evening Star, when he charged that Washington was the source of more lies than any other place in the country. The President attacked rumor mongers of the type depicted in the cartoon and said they are very much in evidence in the nation's capital.

F. D. R. Scores Gossips Said Filling Capital

Washington Source of Many Lies, He Charges.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—

President Roosevelt remarked today that Washington was a rumor factory, the source of more lies than any other place in the country, and referred at the same time to the Cliveden set here.

His observation about the lies was made at his press conference when newsmen mentioned reports that Secretary of the Navy Knox had not disclosed the full losses at Pearl Harbor. Mr. Roosevelt said the reports could be best characterized by the word "rot" and he spelled it out to make it emphatic.

He mentioned the Cliveden set when a reporter said there had been criticism of another loan to Russia on the theory that the Soviet Union should not be made too powerful in the post-war period.

That argument, the chief executive replied, is about on a par with others offered by the Cliveden set in Washington. He would not make a better identification, he added, because he was being awfully polite.

(A so-called "Cliveden set" in England before the war was accused by its critics of advocating appeasement of Germany and a policy of inducing Hitler to forego any expansion to the west in return for a free hand in the east again Russia. Cliveden was the home of Lord and Lady Astor.)

In his discussion of the Pearl Harbor reports, Mr. Roosevelt was featured on the program and Washington Evening Star and suggested it would be a good thing if the cartoon on the front page were circulated throughout the country. It depicted Uncle Sam about to hang a millstone around the neck of a man who had backed "John Q. Public" into a corner and was telling him:

"The British want to fight to the last American."

"Why help the Russians? They'll turn on us later."

"We ought to pull out of the Far East. We can't win there."

In the background was an excerpt from Winston Churchill's speech Sunday in which he said: "Whosoever is guilty of the crime of bringing about disunity, of him let it be said that it were better that a millstone were hung about his neck and that he were cast into the sea."

The type of person portrayed in the cartoon, Mr. Roosevelt remarked, is in evidence in Washington. He said the cartoon was especially applicable to the national capital.

Negro Youth Returns Wallet Containing $50

Finds Lost Billfold, Asks Police Give It Back to Owner.

A. E. Maxwell, of 1029 West Peachtree street, a printer for The Constitution, has decided people are a rather honest lot, after all.

Maxwell didn't feel so good about it Tuesday when by accident he left his billfold containing $50 on a table at the state capitol while he bought a license tag, and returned to find it gone.

Without much hope of success, Maxwell advertised his loss in the want ad section of The Constitution.

Yesterday he received a telephone call from Atlanta police who said that an unidentified 18-year-old Negro had brought the wallet and money to them and asked that it be returned to the owner.

Portias Meet, Hear Talk by Ollie F. Reeves

'Do Something About State of World,' Poet Urges.

A dozen women lawyers—those who were not engaged in defense work at the moment—gathered at the Cox-Carlton hotel last night for their monthly business meeting and to hear Ollie F. Reeves, humorist and poet, discuss their jobs as American women.

Describing women as the "intellectual superiors of men and the greatest strategists of all time" by citing the cases of Eve, Cleopatra and Salome, Reeves called upon them to "do something about the state of the world is in today."

"There is a job to be done in America and a job to be done in the world—and you've fallen down on it here lately," the poet, the only man in the room, was brave enough to say. He approved the appearance of women in the business and professional world, but urged that they steer the world back to the ideals and religion of past generations.

Mrs. Lillian Harclerode, first vice president, introduced the speaker and the president, Miss Daphne Robert, president, thanked him for his talk.

College Park Power Rate Is Reduced

Residents To Save $8,000 as Result of Council Action.

College Park residents will save approximately $8,000 during the next year on their power bill, it was said yesterday, as a result of action by the College Park city council in reducing the rate.

Under the new rate, as the result of council's favorable action on a measure introduced by Councilman Wallace E. Sitton, the College Park residents in the future will pay $1.11 for the first 15 kilowatt hours of power used. The old rate was $1.11 for 10 kilowatt hours.

Following passage of the new power rate, the council named 12 election managers for the March 2 election when a mayor and two councilmen are to be elected. Councilmen Sitton and W. S.

Northcutt are candidates to succeed the late Mayor George W. Harris, while J. D. Bazemore and J. B. Moon have announced for the first ward council seat, and J. W. Stephenson, Lenville Parker and M. H. Hammock are second ward candidates.

Mary Tom Crabtree Chosen Sponsor by Local Pen Women

By SALLY FORTH.

WHEN MEMBERS of the Atlanta Branch of the National League of American Pen Women met last week for their February session, they took action to make Mary Tom Crabtree their official sponsor. In case you don't know, Mary Tom is the small blue-eyed, brown-haired daughter of the Pen Women's popular president, Mary (Mrs. Thomas E.) Crabtree. And so pleased were the Pen Women with their selection of a sponsor that they planned their luncheon program around the baby.

First there was a song, entitled "My Baby's Hand," dedicated to her. The beautiful words of the song were written by William E. Arnaud. Then the Pen Women presented the baby. A small white-bound copy of Grace Allen Hogarth's "A Bible A. B. C." Mabel Brown, co-chairman of the program with Lenna (Mrs. Lawrence) McKinley, made the presentation for the juvenile department of the organization. Little Mary Tom arrived from Georgia Baptist hospital at the Crabtree home on her parents' twenty-first wedding anniversary, thus investing the date with double significance. As you have doubtless guessed, her name combines that of her father with that of her mother, who was before her marriage Mary Clarkson, of Fort Worth, Texas.

When the Crabtrees built their lovely new home on Harris Trail, they virtually planned it around Mary Tom's nursery, a dainty apartment done in pink and blue. Small pink and blue elephants march in serried ranks on the white wallpaper, and on the corners of the windows, which are curtained in sheerest pink organdy fashioned with ruffles of blue. The miniature pink enameled furniture is handpainted in blue flowers to further carry out the color motif.

THE NEXT few weeks will be exceedingly busy ones for Laura Maddox (Mrs. Ed Jr.) Smith, who will be making preparations for her forthcoming visit to St. Louis, Mo. No ordinary visit this, for Laura will go especially to act as matron of honor at the marriage of her cousin, Eunice Holder, to William Pillow Ridley Jr., of Columbia, Tenn.

The wedding will be a fashionable event of March 14, taking place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at St. John's Methodist church, and will be followed by a small reception to be given by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Early Holder, at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

The plans for Eunice's marriage are of especial interest here, for she counts numerous Atlantans among her friends. She has visited Laura on several occasions in the past, when she proved exceedingly popular with the younger set. Eunice has selected her future sister-in-law, Sarah Ann Ridley, as her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. C. D. Hamilton III, Mrs. William R. Orthwein Jr., Mrs. Howard Benoit Jr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin Jr., all of St. Louis.

Campbell R. Ridley will be best man for his brother, and the groomsmen will include Eunice's brother, Marvin Holder, Jr.; Robert F. Jackson Jr., of Nashville, Tenn.; Edward S. Evans, of Columbia, Tenn.; Charles W. Jewell, of Franklin, Tenn.; and Henry H. Rightor Jr., of Helena, Ark.

The pretty bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, and officiating at the nuptials will be Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, of Dallas, Texas, who will be assisted by Dr. John B. Peters. Eunice will be feted at a whirl of parties prior to her marriage, and Laura expects to depart for St. Louis in ample time to be present for some of the festivities.

ALMOST BEFORE it was light last Saturday morning, Mrs. Norman Sharp's telephone rang and a gentleman's voice informed her that he was donating a phonograph and 100 records for the soldiers' recreation rooms at Fort McPherson. You see, it was just that morning that The Constitution carried an earnest appeal for Atlantans to contribute new or used furnishings and games for the use of the soldiers at the fort. The appeal was made in behalf of the victory emergency committee of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, which is headed by Mrs. Sharp.

Many other articles are still needed, such as floor lamps, victrolas, magazine racks, rugs, vases, waste paper baskets, and smoking stands. Also, if you have any games you are not using, the committee would be most grateful for the donation of checkers, ping-pong sets, parchesi, chess, table tennis, playing cards and quiz games.

DO YOU KNOW? That Barbara Blick and Catherine Bond, of Atlanta, who attended Stephens College, have recently been honored by their classmates, the former being made treasurer of the French Club, and the latter being named secretary of the Eta Epsilon Gamma sorority and representative of her resident hall on the board of campus publications? That a certain man-about-town is telling all his friends that he has bought a plantation "right next door to Tara," the home of Scarlett O'Hara, in Jonesboro? That one of Atlanta's most attractive brunet belles will announce her engagement

Well Dressed and Poorly Fed Describes the Business Girl

By Ida Jean Kain.

The American business girl is apt to be well dressed and poorly nourished. She takes more time to dress than she does to eat. She can't get dressed in less than 30 minutes, but thinks about three minutes is enough for breakfast. She takes 10 minutes for lunch and 40 to shop. Dinner is usually her one decent meal of the day—and it's not what could be called a square meal when there is the slightest chance to budget for a fur coat.

The blunt truth is, the little girl does not properly evaluate nutrition. If she would eat better she would have the energy to work harder and earn the money to get that fur coat. Of course, she has a healthy respect for calories. She doesn't want the scales to act up. But what she doesn't realize is that every poorly balanced meal is cutting down her efficiency.

Too many business girls skimp on time and food for breakfast because they lack the appetite for it. Ever since they left home they have been out of the habit of taking anything except coffee. In the lack of their minds they skip on time and food for breakfast because they lack the appetite for it. Ever since they left home they have been out of the habit of taking anything except coffee.

Lunch should be leisurely to break the routine and light enough not to interfere with her brainwork during the afternoon. A good luncheon consists of a bowl of hot vegetable soup, a cheese sandwich and fruit. When cheese is not included there should be milk in some form, either as beverage or custard. The business girl needs her pint of milk a day just as much as anyone.

The power that is in nutrition should be put to work. The smart business girl can quickly learn to choose her calories from the foods that increase vitality and efficiency. If she does this, weight is no problem.

If you cannot plan for an outdoor sport, your only alternative is to take calisthenics. Fortunately, you can keep fit in this way. Send large stamped return envelope for Ida Jean Kain's "Business Girl's Daily Half-Dozen." Mail request to Miss Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—This is a most auspicious day to improve conditions around you and to undertake work of a constructive nature. Changes and developments meet with co-operation from others, and aggressive action on your part will be rewarded.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Previous to 5:46 p. m. suggests caution in travel and moderation in all things. Between 5:46 p. m. and 9:49 p. m. is most favorable for contacting influential people, dealing with women, social matters and entertainments.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 7:10 a. m. your desires are likely to be larger than you can afford, and new beginnings are apt to run into wastefulness and extravagance. If shopping today, be sure you have not purchased more than you can afford.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—This will be an excellent day for dealing with people who serve you or whom you serve in any capacity.

July 23 and August 22 (LEO)—The entire day and until 1:15 p. m. is very disruptive. New beginnings today do not have the necessary thought behind them. Be extra cautious in real estate transactions, travel, artistic affairs and tools.

August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO)—It will be wise to try to be as quiet as possible during the entire day, untaking new ventures, whether they pertain to women, art, finances, human attachments or sociability for disappointments may follow any new efforts.

September 23 and October 22 (LIBRA)—You are likely to be undecided and uncertain during the entire day, and with such a mental outlook this is not considered a favorable time for undertaking risks, or for proceeding with confidence any day.

October 23 and November 21 (SCORPIO)—This will be a very favorable day for ideas that start and finish now. Optimism or over-exuberance for the future should be curbed, and if these traits are held in reserve today will be an auspicious time for domestic, financial affairs, sociability and mechanical interests.

November 22 and December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Before 8:33 a. m. many of your ideas will be worth putting to the test of experience, for you will be filled with considerable intuition as to what is the right thing to do. Between 8:33 a. m. and 1:45 p. m. your mind will be hasty and impulsive, and you should avoid erroneous reports and impressions.

December 22 and January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Before 11:28 a. m. does not favor clear understanding with others. Speculations and speculative ideas may sound alluring, but they are without profit. In your personal life, you feel anxious and suspicious.

January 20 and February 18 (AQUARIUS)—Before 12:37 p. m. will be the time to do those things you want to dispose of quickly. Action and plenty of it can be obtained now. Between 12:37 p. m. and 4:12 p. m. is only suitable for routine matters.

February 19 and March 20 (PISCES)—During the entire day, you are likely to have a strong attraction toward affairs that may be considered as peculiar, and you should therefore use caution in all matters so as to escape misjudgment or miscalculation.

You may obtain as many astrological charts as you wish for your family and friends. Send in the birthdate, address, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover EACH birthdate.

Alfred Hitchcock Directs His Own Daughter As Young Jane Eyre

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—(INS) I am sure there won't be one dissenting vote on David O. Selznick's selection of Ronald Colman to play Edward Rochester in "Jane Eyre." Ronnie is perfect for the moody unhappy Rochester and certainly he and Joan Fontaine, who will play Jane, are a combination that even Charlotte Bronte, the author, would approve. Little Pat Hitchcock, who has made such a sensation on the New York stage, will play the young Jane and make her debut in the movies. And I suppose her dad, Alfred Hitchcock, will direct.

This really ought to be one of the season's best for most of us would travel miles to see "Jane Eyre" in the movies and David has given us such a good cast.

So many movies have been rumored coming up—but immediately—for Judy Garland that it was hard to believe "The Big Time" is really her next. Well, it is, and it starts in eight days. Equally interesting is the news Martha Eggerth makes her Metro debut in the second femme role with Judy.

I have been wondering what happened to Miss Eggerth—and evidently the fans have, too, judging from the queries in my mail. It seems that she has been waiting for the studio to find the right role for her and M-G-M believes the part of a French actress in "Big Time" fills the bill. This is a yarn of the good old vaudeville days of 1915 and Buz Berkeley directs with Arthur Freed producing.

Had to smile to myself when one of the enthusiastic boys in the Republic publicity department told me Anne Jeffreys, beautiful blonde just signed on a contract, was born 12 miles from Ava, Georgia, her birthplace in North Carolina. Don't know what that proves—unless it might be how close she came to getting Mickey Rooney. But joking aside—they are really excited about Anne on the Valley lot. She's a 19-year-old charmer who came here about a year ago to study for the opera. But like most beautiful youngsters, she got the movie bug and after just a brief role in "Married an Angel" with MacDonald and Eddy, she's landed this good contract with Republic.

We did raves over Maxine Sullivan, the Negro blues singer, when she was in Hollywood, but even better than Maxine is Lena Horne, who has just been put under contract by M-G-M. Louis B. Mayer and Arthur Freed, who were at the benefit for the Jewish Home for the Aged Sunday night, have decided to find a picture for her as soon as possible. Lena comes from the West Indies and has a personality that sparkles—and how she can put over a song!

A LINE OR TWO: I have steadfastly refused to believe that Hedy Lamarr and George Montgomery are serious, but if they are not, they are certainly doing a good job of acting. George calls her "Penny" and she presented him with a money clip with a burnished penny on it for luck. We can never be sure now how any Hollywood romance will turn out, so it's possible Hedy and George aren't fooling.

FINNISH GUERRILLAS.

HELSINKI, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A Finnish guerrilla detachment operating 32 miles behind the Russian lines north of Lake Onega was credited by the high command today with destruction of a Soviet supply base and an ammunition dump.

Precautions in Nursing Tuberculosis

By Dr. William Brady.

Nurse beginning work in a famous tuberculosis sanatorium observed the practice of the nursing staff which was approved there as a measure of economy. Nurses wore masks all forenoon, removing them to go to lunch, then on returning to work, instead of putting on fresh, clean masks, turned the soiled mask inside out and wore it again for the rest of the day. When the nurse questioned this practice her objections were promptly overruled. Gauze must be conserved and the nursing staff of the institution was proud of this spirit.

Nevertheless it is a sad breach of aseptic or sanitary technique. The pycnure saving in gauze that such a practice might effect could hardly compensate for the infection of one nurse in 50 or 100 with tuberculosis patients who are in the active stage of the disease and hence possibly giving off tubercle bacilli in their sputa is of course to protect the nurse from droplet or spray infection. This is the way tuberculosis (every other known respiratory infection, from pneumonia to simple coryza, or "the common cold" if you must show your ignorance) is usually spread. Fortunately in recent times it has been amply proved that the actual chance of contracting tuberculosis is greater for you and me in our everyday life and casual association or contact with people than it is for nurses, physicians, servants and attendants in a well conducted tuberculosis sanatorium or hospital. Fortunately, that is, for the patients and nurses.

Tubercle bacilli, like pneumococci (pneumonia germs), streptococci (germs of scarlet fever or septic throat) or flu virus or the germs or virus of any other respiratory infection, are given off not as isolated germs floating in the air the patient breathes out but only in sputa, secretions or fluid mucus discharged by the lungs, bronchial tubes, throat or nose or mouth. During coughing or sneezing a spray (partly visible, partly invisibly fine droplets) is given off from nose or mouth and may carry as far as 10 or 12 feet. During ordinary conversation a similar, though less noticeable spray (droplets so fine you don't feel their impact on your face) is given off and may carry up to five feet. These ranges are not estimates, but scientific measurements. Obviously a nurse, whether professional or just mother or wife or daughter caring for a member of the family, is within the patient's converand ordinary ironing may be relied upon absolutely to sterilize such gauze masks for re-use.

Lubricating Cream To Aid A Dry Skin

By Winifred Ware.

When you step outdoors this morning, and many mornings to come, you will probably be greeted by a brisk wind, and while it may be invigorating, it can cause you a lot of grief if you aren't be careful about counteracting its drying effects.

Already you may have noticed little lines, tiny flakes of skin, or perhaps you have that parched feeling, which is a warning of trouble ahead. The weather, and our modern steam heat, are largely responsible. You are looking for something to correct that dry condition, which will become a serious skin problem, if neglected. For that reason, I was particularly interested in a rich lubricating skin cream which is ideal for correcting just such a condition.

Used each night this cream is excellent for correcting a temporary dry condition.

This cream is available in three sizes, the smallest of which is only $1.50. For further information about this product and the stores where it may be purchased, call Winifred Ware, at Walnut 6565. If you live out of town, write to me, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

MY DAY: On the Play 'Claudia'

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—Saturday and Sunday in New York City I visited the Brooklyn Naval hospital. I had, by this time, sampled all the ways of getting there as rapidly as possible, but somehow there seems to be no very quick way when you are in a hurry.

I did a number of errands, saw a great many people and, among other things, looked at quite a number of apartments, because some day I expect my husband to tell me that the houses in New York are sold before I have found a place in which to move. I have now, however, fairly well made up my mind as to an available spot, so that one thing is off my mind.

There still remains the dividing up, packing and shipping of all the things in the houses, which my mother-in-law and my husband have owned for so many years. There are moments when I wish we had always lived like birds, made our own nests and needed no furnishings!

Saturday evening I took two people, whom I have long wanted to enjoy "Claudia," to see this play. There is real quality to it, for one can see it over and over again and still laugh, and still be moved by the serious lines. Always the phrase, "making friends with pain," strikes me as something we should all remember. I have great appreciation for the entire cast, which played the parts as freshly as when I first saw the play. The little, young wife is very well cast and seems as natural to me as she did when I first saw her in this play.

I was distressed to learn that the author of "Claudia," Miss Rose Franken, and her husband had lost the barn on their summer place by fire last Friday or Saturday. I know they feel about their farm just as the man did in the play.

Sunday afternoon the news of Singapore's capitulation came to a great many people as a tremendous shock. I had talked with the President and he said resignedly that, of course, we had expected it, but I know a great many people did not. Perhaps it is good for us to have to face disaster, because we have been so optimistic and almost arrogant in our expectation of constant success. Now we shall have to find within us the courage to meet defeat and fight right on to victory.

That means a steadiness of purpose and of will, which is not one of our strong points. But, somehow, I think we shall handle physically and mentally as the days go by, take our difficulties cheerfully and win through smilingly.

Miss Dawes Weds Ensign W. F. Bishop At Church Service

Miss Mary Linda Dawes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Dawes, became the bride of Ensign William Frederick Bishop, U. S. N. R., son of Dr. and Mrs. Everett L. Bishop, yesterday afternoon at the Church of Our Saviour.

The rector, Rev. Samuel C. W. Fleming, officiated at 4:30 o'clock. A musical program was presented by Miss Martha Smith, organist.

Palms banked the chancel to form the effective decorations and on either side of the altar were seven-branched candelabra. The altar vases held white gladioli and tall white baskets filled with white gladioli marked the entrance to the chancel. Pews reserved for members of the two families were marked with clusters of white flowers tied with white ribbons.

William Butler, W. F. Watkins, Robert W. Collins and Andrew R. Bergstrom were the ushers.

Miss Virginia Lucas was the maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a beige silk redingote with hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were pink roses.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they met the groom and his best man, William E. White, at the altar. She chose for the ceremony a model of aqua silk crepe worn with brown accessories. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cluster of orchids and swainsons. The book was used by her great-aunt, Mrs. T. H. Browne, of Norfolk, Va., and also by her paternal grandmother at their wedding.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dawes entertained at a reception at their home on Plymouth road. The hosts, the bride couple and the groom's parents received the guests, standing in the living room before an arrangement of fern, white gladioli and snapdragons.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. W. O. Jaudon and Mrs. Charles A. Clayton. Miss Charlotte Babb kept the bride's book.

Mrs. Dawes, mother of the bride, was groomed in Stone Mountain blue, worn with brown accessories, and her flowers were Talisman roses. Mrs. Bishop, the groom's mother, wore navy sheer trimmed in white and her accessories were navy. Her flowers were pink roses.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HINMAN FOLSOM.
Mr. and Mrs. Folsom were photographed as they cut their wedding cake following their marriage last Saturday evening at the home of the bride in Decatur. Mrs. Folsom is the former Mrs. Dorothy Sumrell Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Wallace Seivers.

Ensign Bishop and his bride left for a wedding trip to New York and Newport, R. I., and will later go to Boston, Mass., where they will reside. The bride traveled in a beige tulle suit with brown accessories. Completing her ensemble was an aqua coat trimmed in white and a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Bland Presents Crowns To Mardi Gras King, Queen

Several hundred guests assembled at the Piedmont Driving Club last evening for the Rabun Gap Junior Guild's brilliant "story book" ball, the proceeds of which will benefit the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school in the mountains of north Georgia. Dainties were the order of the evening, with the guests appearing in costume and unmasking at midnight. Numerous prizes were awarded for the costumes, among which were a $25 defense bond, a case of champagne, and a $5 defense bond.

Mrs. George Bland Jr., president of the guild, crowned the king and queen of the ball, George Bland Jr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Barnett, who were selected by a group of well-known authors, including Medora Field Perkins, Mabel Brown, Harry Lee and Mildred Seydell.

Frank Gaither, of the "Frankie and Johnny" radio program, announced each guest as he reached the threshold of the ballroom, and a popular orchestra played for dancing.

Each column in the ballroom was entwined with ivy and centered with a huge poster suggestive of a well-known book. A staircase leading from the balcony was carpeted with white satin and marked by huge white satin bows. The throne at the far end of the ballroom had for its background a mammoth story book, the cover of which bore a sketch of the "little red schoolhouse." Inscribed on the book were the words, "Rabun Gap Junior Guild Mardi Gras Ball." Court pages, Misses Frances Massey, Peggy Gay and Betty Greve, bore the crowns to the reigning sub-monarchs on a white satin pillow. They were followed in their procession by the officers of the guild, who group around the King and Queen as they received prizes.

Browns Receive Financial Help

Donald Budge Follows Style Dempsey Used

Redhead To Display Power Against Rivals Here Monday Night.

Don Budge is the outstanding exponent among the tennis players of the "powerhouse" attack. Not that he is not tactically consistent solely of slugging the ball—far from it. He is one of the best of the court tacticians, and knows all the strokes and when to use them. But his game is predicated upon speed and power. Like Jack Dempsey, he believes that the best defense is a good offense. He apparently proceeds on the theory that what his opponent can't see he can't hit. So when the red-head is in trouble during a match he just rears back, like old Dizzy Dean and "fogs 'em through."

He is the star of the $100,000 troupe of Fred Perry, Frank Kovacs into action at the city auditorium Monday night. Don has no illusions about being a "glamor boy." He loves to tell about what his mother told a neighbor a breakfast of double attract notice as a tennis player. It seems that the neighbor didn't think that Don would ever amount to shucks as a performer on the court, and told Mrs. Budge so. But the mother of the future champion was no wise depressed. Turning to the neighbor, she said, "Well, my boy, Don, may never get to be the best player in the world, but he'll have a hard time keeping him from being the homeliest one."

In the life of J. Donald Budge is a succession of meals followed by a little tennis at night. The California red-head is one of the heaviest eaters in the history of the court game. To fortify himself for the day's activities, Don starts away a breakfast of double orange juice, some bacon and eggs, toast, and one or two glasses of milk. Lunch is a delicate repast, consisting of a shrimp cocktail, some soup, a filet mignon with attendant vegetables, a generous helping of pie—and some more milk. Dinner before a match is usually regarded by tennis players as a light meal. So, to conform with proprieties, big Don scatches the soup from the lunch menu and says, "Bring the rest of it."

Tickets for the show here may be reserved at Northside Tennis Club, V. 6321.

Bowling

Over 25 entries have been received for the Red Cross night bowling tournament, which will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the downtown alleys.

The bowlers of Atlanta have seen all forms of sports contribute towards the national Red Cross needs and are raising their own self-set quota by having a private duckpin tournament of their own.

In this novel event, the women will be allotted full handicap from their average and the figure of 120; the men will be given only 2-3 of this difference—thus placing all entrants on an equal basis.

First prize will be two beautiful red fox pelts valued at $100 and $10 in cash also will be given as additional prizes.

Win or lose, bowlers can help the Red Cross by entering and competing in this event, for the entry fee of $1.00 assessed each person will be turned over to the Red Cross in the name of the bowler competing. Cost of games will be additional, and five games will be bowled.

Bear Enlists There were just a few lines in the paper the other day announcing that Paul Bryant, assistant coach at Vanderbilt, was going into the Navy.

But to Vanderbilt it means a tremendously lot more than that. Red Sanders valued the Bear highly as a producer of talent and as a moulder of lines.

Blessed with a winning personality and the ability to put his points across, Bear roamed the hinterlands in off season "selling" Vanderbilt to graduating seniors who played football. Bear was what is known in the trade as "tough competition." He had that knack of winning folks to his side.

It was at Vanderbilt that Bryant came into his own, as the saying is. There were too many ahead of him at Alabama. He was just one of the assistants. There was more chance at Vandy for him to express his individuality.

The Commodores have lost a valuable athletic asset, and no one knows it better than Head Coach Sanders, who recognized Bear's talents in taking him away from Alabama to be his right-hand man.

Now Bear's enlistment eases the pressure on many a conference talent scout, and it could have a profound effect on future Commodore football.

Check On This What's going on? I mean all this pot-bellied complacency about the international holocaust that threatens the very roots of democracy. Americans, of all people, should be acquainted with the unexpected. This trend of thought may be influenced by the fact that I'm serving on a jury this week, but it's true, nevertheless, that we're not fully awake to the dangers that confront our way of life.

Maybe it would be well to recall what happened to Fordham last fall. There was no chance for Pittsburgh to win that football game. There was no chance for Man of War to lose that only race... or for Singapore to fall, for that matter. What happened to mighty Texas? Overconfidence or internal dissension? Look what happened to France.

Gradually, as one citadel after another falls, Americans are beginning to understand that this is war. It's coming home to all of us that we can't let "George do it." Too often in sports we've seen results that were "sure things" turned into terrible routs.

And it can happen to us. It happens in sports every day. The great Alsbab can't win for losing. The United Nations are meeting one reverse after another.

All well and good to say that we haven't had our turn at bat yet, but there could be an inning that never ended. There's always a first time.

In Short Elmira has given Buster Chatham his outright release... The former Cracker idol is now 40 years of age.

That was pretty clever of the basketball official who came out of retirement to officiate a game between a couple of service teams and then promptly retired for good. Pressed for a reason, he declared, "I saw my shadow."

It happened in Hollywood—in baseball. A pitcher named Wayne Osborne received his contract and sent it back, claiming it called for too much money. It seems he didn't have a good year in 1941 and was unwilling to accept the same salary terms. Oh, well. Everything happens in Hollywood.

Bill Keefe (Times-Picayune) calls attention to the fact that the management of Hialeah Park is at fault for prevailing upon Owner Al Sabath to run Alsbab "to protect the public." Keefe reasons, "A nice way to protect the public—running an unfit horse just so those who paid to get into the track could see him. What about those who bet on Alsbab?"

Everett Clay (Miami Herald), who's been watching the Derby favorite and former 2-year-old champion run, declares, "Colonel Al Sabath doesn't plan to run the colt again until the Flamingo Stakes. Watch him go then, when weights are the same."

It's inconsistency that makes golf the alluring game that it is. Tommy Reeder fired a 38, just three over par, on the front side, and then came limping home with a 50 at Black Rock Sunday.

Kautsky All-Americans Arrive Today for Clash With Celtics

A great basketball team, the Kautsky All-Americans, is slated to pull into Atlanta late today on the eve of its important meeting with the Original New York Celtics tomorrow night at Sports Arena.

The National Leaguers will play in no other southern city this season, since they must return immediately after their two games here to resume their league schedule. The All-Americans meet the Atlanta Police Crackers at the arena Friday night, win or lose against the Celtics Thursday evening. Atlanta's police band will buy uniforms with the profits from the two attractions.

The Celtics haven't forgotten that 45-41 pasting the All-Americans gave them here last season. For that matter, neither have the Kautskys, nor fans who saw the game. In fact, officials at Sports Arena were so impressed by the first Celtic defeat in local history they refused to permit the score to be taken down. And so it still stands, just as it is shown in the accompanying picture.

This will be a game in which two great teams will be shooting the works every moment. The stakes are high and the Celtics in particular cannot afford to lose twice in a row to the Indianapolis crowd.

Glass backboards, making all of the 2,854 seats good, plus a red flash after each basket is shot, will add color to the attraction.

The main game will begin about 10 o'clock. Southern Dental College and Central Cafe collide at 7:30. The second game will pair off Piedmont College and Georgia Tech Bees. Tickets are on sale at Walworth & Hood, Reeder & McGaughey, and Adam Hat.

New Investors Will Purchase St. Louis Stock

Control of Team Remains in President Barnes' Hands.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.—(AP)—New financial support for the sorely pressed St. Louis Browns is being negotiated with prospective investors who have taken an option to purchase about 25 per cent of the club's stock, President Donald L. Barnes disclosed today.

Barnes, majority stockholder, said control of the team would not change hands as a result of the transaction and the deal would not mean any policy making reorganization.

"For some time I have been working on the financial program of the Browns," he declared in a statement. "As soon as a definite program is worked out, it will be submitted to the stockholders and directors for their approval. For obvious reasons, it is impossible at this time to announce any details or the names of any interested parties."

Several of the original members of the syndicate which bought the Browns for $325,000 in November, 1936, were reported unwilling to continue the job of trying to rebuild the club, especially since war conditions have made the future uncertain. Presumably it is their stock which is being offered for sale.

While the transaction in itself would not bring new money into the Browns' coffers, the purchasers undoubtedly would be prepared to carry the team over its financial difficulties.

At a stockholders' meeting last month, Barnes admitted the Browns had no working capital for the coming season, but held out hopes of arranging additional cash loans.

A hint of some change in the club ownership was given at that time when Howard V. Stephens and William H. Bixby, wealthy St. Louis shoe manufacturers, did not stand for re-election as directors. Richard C. Muckerman, St. Louis capitalist who was elected a new director, has been prominently mentioned as a figure in the refinancing plan.

Mother, watch your child carefully for signs of unusual fretfulness, belching and the spitting up of food. Often they come about as a result of temporary constipation. Here TEEETHINA can be relied upon as a mild and efficient laxative. And, when your child is suffering with a cold, so many mothers will tell you it is important that he have good bowel movements because constipation increases the discomforts of a cold.
